Frank Maroney is talking over the coffee with Ernie Spencer and do I hear him? He tells Ernie about being in a cafe in San Luis Obispo to get a cup of Java. Coffee in that particular cafe has a high-brow reputation. You can say something about it if you want to take the risk. There is a fellow of ponderous proportion back of the counter. He continuously carries a long knife. When you get your coffee and give any indication of disapproval either by word or action, the big fellow with the big knife says, "What's the matter," and you say it's darned good coffee.

I am very fond of radios. They bring me a lot of information and contentment. But I don't care for the delivery at midnight, especially from a loud mouthed speaker, or selections which indicate that the notes from the chromatic scale were thrown in without rhyme, reason or harmony. Just noise. I get all I want of that during the day. Friend comes to place his head on my shoulder, or maybe only half his head on my shoulder, and wants to know what he can do with a neighbor who starts his radio full voice at midnight, who prefers conglomerate jazz to lullabies, and apparently disregards the comfort of his adjacent friend. Well, if he has a telephone he could complain to the police department, and if he hasn't a telephone he could throw a hammer through his annoying neighbor's window and go over and get it the next morning. But he won't.

Why should we get into a war? Killed 428 on Labor day just in the regulation legal way, and without formal declaration. In the regular turn of the clock we are daily disposing of those who are unfortunate enough to get in the path of modern weapons which are not included in the list of armaments, but are just as destructive. Killed 37,000 last year. We don't need a war. We got one.

And it's no cause for hilarity when you get the end of your finger pinched in a door, especially when you close the door on your own finger. I'm sympathizing with Coroner Earl Abbey, for that is what he did. Just one of those unconscious accidents which you can't explain from the standpoint of mental physiology, but it has the earmarks of amnesia. Earl hiked to the surgeon for first, second, and he hopes last aid. The surgeon submerged the injured finger in a solution which he assured Earl would kill the bugs, and then casually asked the coroner what the board of supervisors was going to do with his salary. And if Byron Curry and Jim Sleeper laugh when they read this item I'll delete their names from my list of "those saved."

It was Bill White who came back from Point Loma, or the vicinity thereof, with a sword fish weighing 192 pounds. Bill lashed the fish, with its tail pointing one way and sword the other, to the back of the car, and created a riot of interest all the way from Carlsbad to every point where he stopped for gas or food. At Santa Ana he parked the car near Fourth and Sycamore, and caused a congestion which the traffic force had to unravel. A curious cop wanted to know who was creating all the excitement, and when he saw the fish he forgot about the excitement. So, after all, he didn't need Damocles. What Bill needed was a butcher.

If, inquire orange growers, we have to raise the fruit and cultivate and irrigate and fumigate and fertilize, we ought to have something to say about how to sell our own fruit. That is the way a grower expressed his opinion re: the marketing method. Why not have the fruit sold before it starts rotting?

This is Admission Day, and there won't be any so far as the banks and title companies and court house and public institutions are concerned. Oh, I suppose you are concerned. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

S. A. Boy Admits $1150 Theft at Van Antwerp's

By MILLARD BROWNE

A cold, helpless feeling came over 18-year-old Jack Green for a moment Tuesday night when four policemen edged up beside his car as he was pulling away from a parking place in downtown Orange. They ordered him to stop. Did they know anything about that $1150 Van Antwerp jewel burglary in Santa Ana two weeks ago? Those jewels had been sold for only $16.

DICTATORSHIP CHARGED ON WATER BOARD

Wallop in Battle With Attorney Rutan

A verbal storm that reached cyclonic proportions hit a meeting of the Orange County Water District directors yesterday afternoon when Director William Wallop and Consulting Attorney A. W. Rutan locked horns. It all started over the appearance of Chairman Willis H. Warner, Secretary C. A. Palmer and Attorney Rutan before the board of supervisors Tuesday when passage of a resolution to further final settlement of the Irvine water spreading suit against upper county water interests was under consideration.

Wallop objected angrily over what he termed assumption of control of the water district by the officers and the attorney. He charged that they were trying to run the entire district without asking the advice of other directors of the board. There are seven such directors.

"SICK AND TIRED OF IT" "I'm sick and tired of it," Wallop shouted, referring to his charges of assumption of authority, and then after Rutan had explained reasons for the action which involved James Irvine, Wallop demanded to know if Rutan was working for Irvine or for the water district.

Whereupon Rutan offered to resign his job if a majority of the board so desired. And he also said that what Wallop wanted was to run the entire water district himself. Rutan claimed that the appearance before the board of supervisors was an emergency matter, brought about because upper river water interests were acting in an attempt to upset the impending settlement of the famous water suit. He said the source of his information was private, and that a delay of even a day might have been dangerous.

DELAY WAS DANGEROUS Warner explained that Irvine was perturbed over the report he had received to the effect that upper river water interests were planning to back out of the settlement. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Tunnel Workers Lose Court Fight

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—CIO union tunnel workers were losing today in a legal fight to enlist the aid of the national labor relations board in establishing union hiring on the Colorado river aqueduct.

The board, Director Towne Nylander announced, has no jurisdiction over the Metropolitan Water District, an agency organized by Southern California cities to build the aqueduct.

Union tunnel workers recently went on strike.

DETACHMENT WIPED OUT IN AMBUSH

Shanghai Defenders Continue to Hold

PEIPING. (AP)—A detachment of 4000 Japanese troops was reported today to have been wiped out by a deadly Chinese ambush in the rocky hills west of here. The Japanese line was said to have been thrust back five miles by the sudden Chinese onslaught.

Japanese commanders were obviously more and more worried over the fate of their operations in this area, where their advance has been held up a full month by dogged Chinese resistance and astute strategy.

Heavy reinforcements were flowing through Peiping to Lianghsiang, 30 miles to the south, and to the sorely menaced Japanese right flank in the western hills around Mentoukuo, 25 miles to the west.

The steady stream of wounded Japanese coming back from the front was almost equally heavy. Several thousands have been brought here in the last few days and last night a trainload of wounded was evacuated to Tangku, the port of Tientsin, where they will be sent back to Japan. Most of the injured were lying flat on the floors of cattle cars.

Reliable Chinese reports from the Mentoukuo front, where the whole Japanese operation is threatened by a wide Chinese flank attack, said that the 4000 Japanese were drawn into a trap by retreating Chinese.

The Japanese pursued the retreat into the maze of hills where the Chinese have prepared almost impregnable positions. Then, from their lairs on the hill tops, the Chinese swarmed down, riddling the Japanese with machine gun fire and forcing them to retreat five miles to the east.

Shells Fall Near U. S. Consulate

SHANGHAI. (AP)—Three one-pounder shells crashed directly in front of the American consulate-general this afternoon, seriously injuring three Chinese civilians and one British Sikh policeman. The "pom-pom" shells were fired from Chinese guns just north of the international settlement border, apparently at four low-flying Japanese bombers.

NAZI LEADER HITS U. S. A.

NURNBERG. (AP)—Nazi Germany's little propaganda minister, Paul Joseph Goebbels, declared before national socialism's annual congress today that a new Europe is being formed "for which we will fight to the last breath" against communism.

Dr. Goebbels brought all his powers of invective into play—some of them against Americans and "deluded" democracies—a few hours after Germany had decided she could not sit down at a Mediterranean conference table with other powers.

He warned Europe and the world's crossroads, and added: "What happens today in Spain may repeat itself tomorrow in any country!"

'Don't Risk War,' Voters Shout

"Get out of China and stay out so long as the war dogs are growling!"

This call grew louder in Santa Ana today as the ratio of the war poll now being conducted by The Journal rose to 5 to 1. Ballots started to pour in on the two propositions.

Readers who favored the proposal that the United States should not risk war, but should remove its military forces and warn its citizens that they remained at their own risk, climbed to a total of 55. Those in favor of protecting the citizens and using our military forces to discourage the Japanese invasion remained at 11.

SLEEPS FOR YEAR WITH CORPSE

NEW YORK. (AP)—A 65-year-old recluse who, police said, told them she had slept for nearly a year with the corpse of her husband, was held for observation today in Bellevue hospital.

"I was waiting for him to get up for a year," she replied, "and it is not a year yet."

The body of Cudas was found on a bed in their tiny two-room apartment by Patrolman Edward Goehner, after an investigator for the old age pension bureau was denied permission to see Cudas on the plea that he was "in a coma."

Later, still refusing to believe he had died, Mrs. Cudas said she thought he was suffering from sleeping sickness.

Mrs. Cudas insisted on taking her purse with her to the hospital. It contained, police said, an uncashed $1500 life insurance policy on her husband, a bank book showing deposits of $300 and $28 in cash.

Sky-Pilot Pops From Pulpit Into Plane

GLENDALF. (AP)—A sky pilot for several years, the Rev. Elmer Gorman, 30, pastor of the North Glendale Methodist Episcopal church since last July, stepped out of the pulpit into a transport pilot's seat today.

Rev. Gorman resigned from the church yesterday to become a co-pilot on Transcontinental Western Air Lines. He will fly on the run between San Francisco and Albuquerque, N. M. He came here from a pastorate at Parlier, Calif., and received his air training in the United States army schools at Kelly field and March field.

'Woman in Red' Explains Slaying

Margaret Drennan, pretty 20-year-old Iselin, N. J., schoolgirl (shown above with her attorney) today murmured a hope for the law's forgiveness as she was held in jail without bail after her confession that she killed Paul Reeves, 25, married man, after an illicit romance. She said she shot him when he insisted on continuing their affair. She also said she expected to become a mother. A profession of uns'aker, love came from his widow, attractive Myra Reeves, who said: "I don't care what he did. I love him."

Hot Chase Ends Pepper 'Theft'

A thrilling manhunt was waged throughout Orange and San Diego counties last night—and it was all on account of a 50-cent salt and pepper set, a thoroughly disgusted sheriff's office report revealed today. A flash came through that two youths had robbed Bertha Baker's hot-dog stand at Capistrano and had driven furiously away.

A network of police and deputy sheriffs immediately bottled up every possible escape. Newport police presently reported the capture of two youths in a car that fit the earlier description.

Deputies A. W. Fullerton and E. E. Steinberger rushed to Newport to grill the wryly-smiling boys. They bundled the youths into the sheriff's car and sped to Capistrano for an identification. "They're the ones," Bertha Baker declared. "They did it."

The youths, she said, had purchased coffee and doughnuts at her place. "Then they swiped a salt and pepper shaker," she charged.

"No, they didn't exactly intimidate me," she admitted. "But I was suspicious of their actions and thought they might be robbers."

She declined to press petty theft charges, decided she'd rather have the boys pay her for the shakers. The culprits laid 50 cents on the counter, proceeded on to Long Beach.

I'll Tell You By BOB BURNS

In the old days, the family doctor took care of everything. You called him if you had a cold, fever, stomach ache or a nail in your foot, but today it looks like you have to have a specialist for every little thing that ails you. All you have to do now is find out what ails you and then go to the right specialist.

My Uncle Chig came out to see me not long ago and when he started complaining about his health, he said, "I took him down to see a big health specialist. The first thing he asked Uncle Chig was, 'Do you sleep with your windows open?' Uncle Chig says, 'No, I ain't got no windows' and the specialist says, 'Well, that's just the trouble with you. You've got to have more air at night. You need more ventilation.'"

Uncle Chig says, "Well, then, I reckon I'll have to knock some spokes out of the wheels—I been sleepin' under my wagon for three years."

Germany, Italy Action Brings New War Scare

LONDON. (AP)—France and Great Britain answered German-Italian refusal to take part in a Mediterranean "anti-piracy" conference today with new determination to use their warships to prevent attacks on shipping. Both the British and French also insisted that the conference in Switzerland tomorrow would achieve definite results—despite refusal of Fascist powers to take part.

War Crisis Flashes

Great Britain and France joined forces today against the Italian-German bloc in the Mediterranean "anti-piracy" conference. Rome and Berlin, acting in close collaboration, refused to attend a conference in Switzerland tomorrow to deal with torpedoing of merchant ships.

London and Paris replied in chorus with:

1. New determination to use their warships to stop the attacks.

2. Insistence that the parley achieve results whether or not Italy and Germany attend.

Italy had not replied to a second Italian ultimatum charging it with complicity in sinking of merchant vessels. Rome and Moscow reported on the brink of a breach of diplomatic relations.

The British freighter Stanwood was reported captured by a Spanish insurgent war vessel in the Bay of Biscay.

HITS ORANGE SEWER PLAN

A serious blow was dealt today to plans of the city of Orange to withdraw from the Joint Outfall Sewer district.

An official opinion delivered today by City Attorney Lew Blodgett gave the city a green light for Orange's plans. Blodgett said that under the law creating the sewer district, there is no provision for the withdrawal.

The attorney said that if Orange does not want to use its section of the outfall sewer it cannot be forced to do so, but the city is obligated to continue paying its share of the total cost of upkeep and operation.

The opinion came after the city council had asked Blodgett for a written opinion after Orange sent a resolution here asking Santa Ana to agree to open negotiations for withdrawal. Orange wants to set up a sewage disposal plant just north of the rich residential district in Santa Ana. Local interests are opposed to the plan because they fear a menace to health and property values.

Sentiments similar to the opinion by Blodgett were expressed at a meeting of the joint outfall district board last night in Anaheim.

Asks $10,000 For Lost Tooth

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Loss of his front tooth in a collision on the Beverly Hills High school baseball diamond was valued at $10,000 by 14-year-old Wallace E. Friestedt today.

He asked that amount in a suit against the school district, alleging his career as a public speaker was spoiled.

NAZI PLAN TO SEIZE U. S. CHARGED

'Storm Troopers' in California, Report

CHICAGO, (AP) — The Daily Times said in a copyright article today that "in uniforms strangely suggestive of those worn by Adolf Hitler's Nazi storm troops, a relatively small but rapidly growing army is preparing for the American counterpart of 'Der Tag' when it plans to seize control of the United States."

The newspaper said the article resulted from an "exhaustive investigation of American Nazis" made by three reporters and investigators, James J. Metcalfe, his brother and William A. Mueller. Mueller wrote the article.

The investigators of the newspaper said, "worked for many months both from within and outside the Amerikadeutscher Volksbund — German-American Bund — and its companion organization, the Deutscher Volksbund," traveling from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, to "learn international secrets."

"The Times investigators found the German brand of fascism spreading throughout the nation. Leaders of the movement say they will seize control of the United States, but not until the Communists' revolution starts!"

The Times said the Amerikadeutscher Volksbund had chapters in the following cities:

Denver, Salt Lake City, Portland, Ore.; Seattle and Spokane, Wash.; Los Angeles, Oakland, Concord, Petaluma, Santa Barbara, San Diego, San Francisco and San Gabriel.

'HOOEY' SAYS CHIEF OF NAZI CAMP
ANDOVER, N. J. (AP) — The director of the German-American Bund's camp Norland today called the assertion that American Nazis were preparing to seize control of the United States "the greatest joke in history."

"Such a statement is without sense, nothing but a big lie, and a lot of 'hooley,'" declared August Klapprott, head of the oft-criticized camp for girls and boys in the Sussex county hills.

BORAH DEMANDS PROBE BY CONGRESS
WASHINGTON, (AP) — Senator Borah (R., Idaho) said today congress should investigate the extent of Nazi activity in the United States.

He made the statement in commenting on the Chicago newspaper article which said that German-American Bund leaders were organizing American citizens.

"There isn't any doubt of the fact that such organization is going on in this country, but to what extent I do not know," the Idahoan said.

"However, it is sufficiently important to call for an investigation."

400 Pensionites Hear Hansen

Declaring that impoverished conditions have placed a great class of Americans under a bondage equal to that decreed in Biblical times, H. B. Hansen, prominent Townsend leader of Riverside, last night addressed a meeting of 400 Santa Ana Townsend sympathizers in Birch park.

Hansen cited several Bible references to points included in the old age pension plan. He was introduced by J. M. Mapes, who conducted the meeting after Walter L. Robb of the Santa Ana Townsend organization gave a brief talk.

More than 100 non-Townsendites attended the meeting, officials estimated.

Seems like the merger is perfectly satisfactory to the Union. I like to see people as well as states get along.

Talking with a returned tourist he said he enjoyed his trip, even if he did cover in two weeks the same route and mileage a friend of his covered in three. I haven't talked with the tourist who consumed three weeks, but I suspect he got his idea from Elynor Glynn.

Two thousand years ago ministers were of divine selection. They were able men, to have left their impress upon present-day civilization. Since that time preparation for the ministry is a careful and meticulous requirement, occasionally an enthusiastic soul becomes obsessed with the idea that he is specially called. A friend related to me a story about a young farmer who dreamed that while he was in the field the letters "p c" appeared in the sky, which he interpreted as a command to preach Christ. He related the story to a neighbor whose conclusions were always based on something more tangible. He told his friend he had misinterpreted the letters. They meant "plow corn." It takes more than a vision to be a minister.

1800 Scouts Organize to Fight Disaster Here

Be prepared! With that ideal of scouting set firmly in their hearts, 1800 red-blooded Boy Scouts of Orange county prepared today to do their part if a major disaster should strike this county.

The boys will take an active part in the greatest mobilization program ever attempted in the history of scouting in this county. They will work as one of the vital units in the county-wide major disaster setup now being organized.

Definite plans for putting the program into effect were made at a meeting of scout leaders from all parts of the county last night at Camp Irvine.

Scout Executive Harrison E. White said today that plans will be started immediately to name a committee for scout work in connection with the disaster relief plan.

Every Boy Scout in the county will be included in one of three major divisions. One of these divisions will cooperate with the Red Cross, officers with law enforcement and the third in distribution of food in time of an emergency.

YOUTH ADMITS JEWEL THEFT

He should take him all the way to Santa Ana, just because he'd parked illegally, and the sinking feeling came back.

Y. M. C. A. officials reported Green had not lived there since last November.

But his doubts abruptly vanished. When officials finally accused him of burglarizing three Santa Ana homes and one at Norwalk since he'd been home from the San Diego county CCC camp.

He stammered a denial. Then they asked where he got the under-sized hat he was wearing. He mentioned a Los Angeles department store. A telephone check revealed the store didn't sell that kind of hat.

The hat was like one which had been stolen from Ray Homeier's home in Whittier several days ago, said two Los Angeles county deputy sheriffs who came to Santa Ana to fire some questions of their own at Green.

CONFESSES
Finally Jack Green admitted he'd done the Whittier burglary. More questions brought out confessions to the three Santa Ana jobs—one in which $1151.50 worth of jewelry was stolen from Mrs. C. H. Van Antwerp's home at 1904 North Flower street, another at Mrs. W. G. Lewis' home, 1916 North Flower street, and a third at the home of H. A. Stearns, 801 North Olive street.

Green told the police he'd sold Mrs. Van Antwerp's valuable jewels for $16.

He also told them where they could go to recover the loot, and nearly every article reported stolen in the three burglary cases was safely returned to the owners.

As a kid of 15, Green was convicted on four burglary jobs here in 1934 and turned over to the juvenile home for eight months.

PROTECTION GONE
He's 18 now, though, and he's no longer legally protected as an "irresponsible kid."

It was on information from Norwalk officers that Orange police and Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford of Santa Ana made the arrest. Green will be taken back to Norwalk this afternoon for prosecution, and a hold order will be forwarded by the Santa Ana police.

Cooperating with Wolford in the investigation were W. J. Weirich and John P. Slough, Los Angeles county deputy sheriffs.

U. S. WILL PROTECT NATIONALS—HULL
WASHINGTON, (AP) — Secretary Hull indicated today that the United States does not intend to withdraw its troops or naval vessels from China so long as the present undeclared war between Japan and China continues.

The secretary of state asserted at his press conference that this government's responsibility for protecting its nationals in disturbed areas lasts for the duration of the period of danger.

sand and concrete effectively blocked the Japanese fleet from spreading its activities far upriver from Shanghai. It meant that any considerable advance of the Japanese would place their land forces beyond the protecting range of their warship's guns.

The barrier also bottled up the United States fleet of river gunboats on the Yangtze and made more difficult the evacuation of 1200 war-beleagured refugees at Hankow, 550 miles up the Yangtze from Shanghai, as well as other Americans in various parts of the valley.

Nearly 500 American officers and sailors are aboard the six gunboats marooned on the river. They have food supplies for six months, however, and Admiral Yarnell felt no concern for their safety.

BOMB SHELTERS SAVE AMERICANS IN AMOY
AMOY, China, (AP) — American residents of this South China port of Fukien province were forced to scurry underground today into bombproof dugouts for protection against a shattering two-hour raid of Japanese warplanes and warships.

American lives were gravely endangered and the United States warship Asheville was caught in the bombardment. Several bombs fell only a short distance from the Asheville, and forced her officers and crew to hurry below decks for refuge from the hail of shrapnel.

Bombs and shells rained on the army headquarters, police headquarters, the airfield and the old fort near the compound of the American Socony-Vacuum Oil Co.

ment agreement on the basis that the board of supervisors of Orange county had not passed a resolution rescinding an old water spreading agreement between this, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

The other two counties had voted to rescind the agreement six weeks ago, but Orange county had done nothing until Tuesday, when it took the same action. Supervisor Harry D. Riley, Anaheim, voted against the proposal after talking on the telephone with Director Wallop, who is superintendent of the Anaheim Union Water company.

TWO SIGNATURES NEEDED
All that remains to be done now for settlement of the suit is for Francis Cuttle, president of the Water Conservation association, one of the defendants in the suit, and Chairman Warner of the Orange County Water District, to sign the stipulation. It is expected now that this will be done before another month is over, unless some unexpected hitch takes place.

Under terms of the settlement agreement, the upper counties will not spread Santa Ana river water until a stipulated flow passes a measuring point at Prado. Orange county's victory in the suit lies in the fact that the measuring point has been changed from the Chapman street bridge to the Prado site. The resolution the three boards of supervisors now have adopted rescinds an agreement between the three counties setting the Chapman street bridge as the measuring point.

Russia's acceptance of the conference called asked that question of France and Britain, arguing that Germany, with no Mediterranean coast, had no justifiable concern in Mediterranean affairs.

INSURGENTS SEIZE BRITISH FREIGHTER
LONDON, (AP) — The 101-ton British freighter Stanwood reported she was captured by a Spanish insurgent war vessel in the Bay of Biscay, Lloyd's disclosed today.

The marine underwriters said a message from the Stanwood reported she was seized about 10 p. m. last night within Spanish territorial waters near Ribadesella, on the north coast of Spain, about 30 miles east of Gijon, a government-held port.

Hunchback dwarfs at the court of King Philip IV of Spain were immortalized by the painter Velasquez.

BEGIN FIGHT FOR FUND TO SAVE WATER

Angry because the WPA has cancelled its water spreading project on the Santa Ana river, directors of the Orange County Water district yesterday afternoon began a new fight to get government aid on the water conservation project. But at the same time, they acted to set in motion plans for their own permanent spreading project.

Directors said that after approving the WPA project, it operated for but 10 days before some state WPA official came here and abruptly cut off the spreading project, saying it was of no value. The directors feel that it is one of the most valuable projects in the county, because it has saved huge quantities of water by sinking it into the underground basin.

But while the directors are finding out whether it is possible to get further aid on the water spreading project from the government, they will continue to keep the river bed in shape for spreading and work out a permanent spreading program.

The water board is planning to purchase all necessary land in the river channel for spreading purposes in a comprehensive program which will widen the river above the Olive bridge to the bottleneck, straightening out a bad curve.

The directors named a committee of Directors C. A. Palmer, William Wallop and William Maurerhan to meet with the board of supervisors next Tuesday to launch plans for the permanent water conservation program.

VOTERS OPPOSE U. S. IN WAR

One couple wrote in:

"This vote goes for both of us. We think the United States should attend to her own affairs and exercise her neutrality agreement and stay neutral."

The note was signed by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Howland, 320 East Bishop street, Santa Ana.

Another letter read: "Your war editorials Monday and Tuesday were honeyed! Your war poll idea is a whiz. I'm glad there's at least one newspaper in the country that has guts enough to be American! Just another grateful Garden Grove Reader."

Still another Santa Ana subscriber enclosed this note along with a ballot marked by three crosses:

"An enclosing ballot. There are three registered voters in our home and all would like to vote on this ballot, if that is permissible. I certainly hope everyone taking your paper will think seriously enough about the danger we might be facing to vote right. It is not necessary for the U. S. to go to war. We are not in favor of leaving the U. S. to fight. If war must come, let it be done to protect this country. I say fight, but never leave the U. S."

All Orange county residents should make themselves heard in public sentiment now building up regarding the war danger.

The government will align its policy according to public sentiment.

Now is the time to act, by voting in The Journal poll!

RADIO PHONE ADS YACHTS IN TROUBLE

Calls to Shore Bring Help to Boatmen

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Radio telephone, latest scientific marvel to aid yachtsmen, was responsible in helping two boatmen to shore during the past week, it was learned here today.

Ed Locke, marooned several miles at sea because of an empty gasoline tank, merely called shore on his radio-phone set. Steve Smith, receiving the call, sent out gasoline and the yachtsman continued his trip.

The other call for aid was from the cruiser "Wanpoca," owned by a Los Angeles businessman. The craft was marooned near Laguna Beach, and the owner sent in a call to his office. Operatives there got in touch with Preston Foster, well-known movie star, who was aboard his fast cruiser, Zoa III, at Balboa. Foster immediately started out on a search for the boat and gave necessary aid.

In the case of the Locke call, it was learned later that the radio message was picked up at San Diego and forwarded to Newport. Ordinarily, the radio telephone calls go through Marine Radio Telephone station KOU at San Pedro, and from there are relayed as regular phone calls, with boatmen able to talk directly to their homes or whatever number they wish to call.

New York Stocks

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK. (AP)—Stocks rode over war fears and business doubts in today's market and many leaders posted recoveries running to 4 or more points.

While the upward reversal encountered profit selling obstacles now and then, and extreme adjectives were reduced in numerous instances before the sound of the final gong, most issues ended well and on the upside.

There was little betterment in the Mediterranean danger spot, and plenty of international dynamite remained in the Far East, but the extent of this week's slump, brokers said, attracted quick-turn buyers and some short covering. Investment and outside participation was believed relatively small.

Orders from abroad were understood to have been more in evidence, although there apparently was no rush to get aboard from this quarter.

Dealings speeded up in the initial hour. They quieted later and at times the ticker tape was exceptionally slow. Transfers were around 1,400,000 shares.

POMONA FAIR TO DEDICATE ART BUILDING

Foremost Painters to Exhibit Canvases

A magnificent new $50,000 fine arts building will be dedicated with an exhibition of 185 oils and water colors by the foremost contemporary American painters when the Los Angeles county fair opens in Pomona on Sept. 11.

"We believe," says Millard Sheets, director of the exhibition and himself a painter of national importance, "that this exhibit will be on a par with the annual show of the Art Institute at Chicago and the biennial exhibit at the Corcoran gallery in Washington."

MASTERS OF DECADE

The exhibit is strictly invitational and non competitive. It will consist of paintings by such masters of the decade as Thomas Benton, muralist; Grant Wood, Eugene Speicher, noted figure painter; Edward Hopper, John Stuart Curry, John Marin, master of water colors; Edward Bruce, of the federal government's art projects; Leon Kroll, Maurice Sterne, Henry Lee McFee, Lucile Branch, Blumenschein Costigan, Arthur B. Davis, Randal Davey, Frank Denveck, Stephen Etnier, Lauren Ford, Frederick Friesche, William Higgins, George Innes, Joe Jones, Bernard Karfoll, Jonas Lie Lucien, Labanet, Luigi Lucioni, Sidney Laufman, Donald M. Madison, Guy Pene DuBois, Dewitt Parshall, Albert E. Ryder, E. W. Redfield, Francis Speight, Haratton Walker, John Whorf and some 70 others.

The transition of the fine arts department from its modest beginning in a dusty sideshow through the inadequate, stucco gallery and into the present magnificent air-cooled building covering half an acre honors the memory of the artist who founded the county fair's fine arts shows. The national exhibition will be known as the Theodore B. Modra memorial and one of his oils will have a place of honor. Passing on in 1930, he lived to see his dream fulfilled. His ambition was to disseminate education to the average public through the medium of art. His ideal is admirably expressed in his own words.

"Art makes life more beautiful, gives us a better understanding of the beauty and wonders of nature and is a spiritual organ of human life. Therefore anything—whether painting, print or what not—which, in this modern, rushing age, exerts a tangible influence towards higher excellence as opposed to higher speed, must appeal on this ground alone to all of us who think."

Jaysee Offers Clothing Course

A specialized clothing course will be offered this semester at Santa Ana Junior college. Miss Hazel Dawson, home economics instructor at the college, said today.

The class will specialize in the making of tailored garments, wool coats, suits and ensembles. Fashion trends place new emphasis upon this style for college and street wear.

Another addition to the Jaysee campus this year is the cooking laboratory, which makes possible several new classes. Students enrolling in the food classes have previously been forced to use the Willard Junior High school kitchens.

FERRIS TAKES TALK FINALS

Contrasting the beauties of nature with the destruction wrought by man, Walter Ferris last night won first place in finals of an elimination speaking contest held by Smedley chapter, Toastmasters International. Ferris' speech was titled "Seven League Boots."

McKelvey on "New Equipment in Law Enforcement," David Cherry on "The Stars and Stripes," Sam Long on "Nations Do Not Want War," and A. T. Kline on "The War Racket." Eugene Kruger was toastmaster, Jack Sniffin, dictionary critic, and Ralph Smedley general critic.

LOS ANGELES. (AP) — The Northrop Aviation Corporation plant in El Segundo has been closed and will not re-open, under an order issued by Donald Douglas, president of the parent organization, the Douglas Aircraft Corporation.

The closing order affects 1400 employees. Douglas said the plant was being shut down permanently because "this world-famous organization has been deliberately destroyed by wanton selfishness and blind leadership of a few professional labor agitators."

NOTED MEMBER FOR CALUMPIT

A former lieutenant governor of Indiana and acting governor general of the Philippine islands today had become a member of the Santa Ana United Spanish war veterans camp.

Newton Whiting Gilbert, whose biography appears in "Who's Who in America," was mustered into Calumpit camp No. 26 at initiation ceremonies Tuesday night, transferred from Foreign Service camp No. 87, New York City. He was a former Indiana department commander of the United Spanish war veterans.

Three other new members were added to the Calumpit camp roster last night, Benjamin T. Gurney, 2202 South Towner street, and Charles J. Balalar, 218 Berkeley street, Santa Ana, and Albert Place, Elden street, Costa Mesa. Benjamin T. Gurney also was mustered into camp membership. Commander Charles I. Reagan conducted the initiation.

Burke Denied Radio Permit

WASHINGTON. (AP) — The communications commission said today it has dismissed with prejudice the application of Frank P. Doherty, Los Angeles, for authority to transfer control of Radio Broadcasters, Inc., licensee of Station KRKD, to J. F. Burke, sr., and Loyal K. Smith, both of Santa Ana.

Previously, a commission examiner had recommended the Doherty application be denied on the ground it violated the communications act and would not serve the public interest.

Arrested on bench warrants issued last March, three Garden Grove youths were arraigned in Santa Ana justice court yesterday on charges they stole a car belonging to Ignacio Arebello.

The asserted grand theft occurred last March 14.

SAN DIEGO. (AP) — A watermelon-patch guard shot and fatally wounded Fred Gonzalez, 14, here last night as his five companions fled in an automobile. Undersheriff George Brerton said. Michael Brewer, the guard, was ordered held on "suspicion of murder" after he told Brerton that he had fired on the boys when he found them raiding the melon patch.

NEW COLLEGE COOKING CLASS

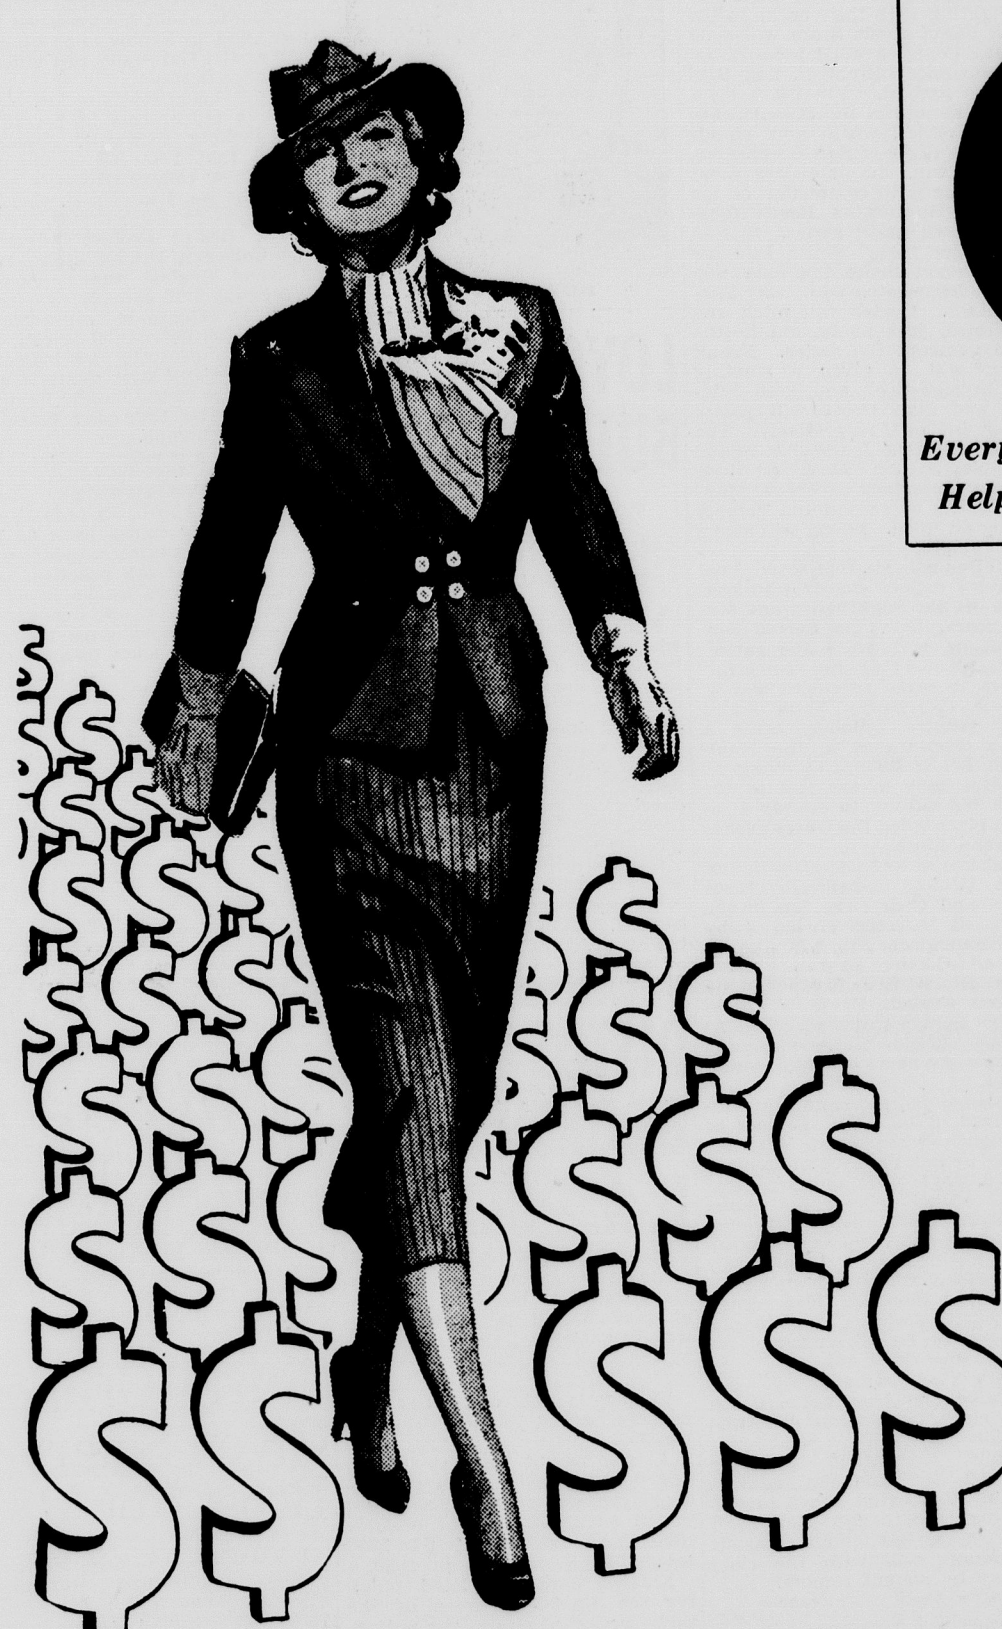

The home economics department of Santa Ana Junior college is offering a new class in cookery open to all women students. Miss Hazel Dawson, home economics instructor, announced today.

Previous to this time, only a class in nutrition, primarily for pre-nursing courses, has been offered. The department is no longer handicapped by having to use the laboratory of Willard Junior High school for its work, for a complete kitchen has been installed in the home economics bungalow on the campus.

"The class in cookery should appeal to many types of college women," Miss Dawson said. "There has long been a demand for the work by both students who started the work in high school and by others who were unable to avail themselves of such opportunity there."

Although no prerequisite is required for the course, little duplication of high school work will be found in the college class, it was said.

Every football fan realizes how difficult it is for most elevens to march from their own goal to pay dirt—a distance of 100 yards. Yet

Our Dons, in annexing their third Southern California Jaycee championship, covered the distance of the field more than 33 TIMES against conference and non-conference rivals last fall.

The Bill Cook-Blanchard Beaty machine rolled up 3308 yards—nearly two miles—from scrimmage, and they smothered their rivals in first downs, 141 to 70. That's an enviable record, brother.

Can the 1937 edition, studied with incoming prep stars and 14 returning lettermen, approach this goal?

This department is withholding an opinion until the Dons' practice brush with Pasadena's free-lance champions here a week from tomorrow night. No, the Santa Anans won't be a polished outfit in so early a test, but if they have the potential strength of a champion, it will be uncovered that night.

The road to a championship is filled with troublesome detours—Riverside, Fullerton, Chaffey, San Bernardino, Citrus and Pomona. When a team side-tracks those six rivals, it knows it has been through some competition. As usual, there is not a "weak sister" in the entire outfit. The day of the conference door-mat has passed.

Just to brush up the memory, here's how the champion Dons moved across the gridiron last fall:

"Now listen, Joe, we allowed Coates to join Santa Ana after a squawk, but we aren't going to stand for any more of that stuff."

Thus spoke Howard Bard, big boss of San Bernardino's Ponies, when Manager Joe Rodgers of Huntington Beach informed him Louie Neva had come back for the Shaughnessy nightball playoffs. Rodgers came over to the Municipal bowl Tuesday night to see the Stars lose a 10th-inning struggle to San Bernardino, 4-2.

Bard indicated by his conversation that San Bernardino officials will let out a blast that can be heard all the way to San Juan Capistrano, if Huntington Beach employs Neva against San Bernardino.

There is nothing Bard can do. It was laid down at a recent National league meeting—at which San Bernardino—that Coates is the property of Santa Ana, and Neva the property of Huntington Beach, and that both are eligible despite their connections with Visalia of the San Joaquin Valley league and Ponce City, Okla., of the Western baseball association, respectively.

Rodgers voted to ban both Coates and Neva at that meeting. He lost. Now, however, it looks as if he won, because Neva will be on the firing line to aid "Chico" Sabella and "Fuzzy" Errington.

WARD'S NEW HURLER STOP LOMITA GAS NINE, 8 TO 2

Walt Jordan threw two new chuckers at the Lomita Gas company nine last night who held the opposition to four scattered blows while Montgomery Ward's outfit banged out an 8-2 win in the Municipal bowl. Ward's club is awaiting the final playoff game in which City league title with the Elks, who are representing Santa Ana in The Examiner tournaments.
Paresiss Roussos, making his debut in a Ward uniform, took the hill first, striking out eight during his four-inning tenure and giving up only one single. A newcomer, Paul Eckles from Texas, took over the assignment from that point.
Ward took the lead from the first scoring two runs in each of the first, second and third frames.

DEAN SCOFFS AT YEAR'S RETIREMENT

Anaheim Nips Oilers, 2-1

COATES HURLS FOR STARS TONIGHT

San Bernardino Nine Seeks to Wind Up Series in Home Park

Anaheim's valiant Valencia, thanks to their crafty manager, Blair (String) McDonnell, were back on even terms with Huntington Beach's defending champions today after polishing off Joe Rodgers' Oilers, 2 to 1, at Anaheim last night. Fifth game of the series, which now is squared at two-all, will be played at Huntington Beach tomorrow night.

Fighting with their backs to the wall, Santa Ana's Stars will send Jimmy Coates against Venn Botts' long-distance hitters at San Bernardino tonight. The Stars must win to remain in the Shaughnessy playoff series, which now stands 3 to 1 in favor of San Bernardino. If they win, the inlanders must mark time until completion of the Anaheim-Huntington Beach four-out-of-seven game series.

Manager "Doc" Smith said his Stars will play the long haul to San Bernardino with their lineup intact. Coates will pitch and bat third, just as he did in the third game of the series. Frank Luker will be given a starting role in rightfield, and Fred Wiemer and Nan Coates will patrol center and left, respectively. The infield will have Joe Wallin behind the plate, Bob Mott on first, Charley Comstock at short, Manager Smith on second and Tommy Young on third. Young will swing fifth tonight.

McDonnell, six-foot-seven Los Angeles deputy sheriff who has been in the nightball wars for 10 years, took the mound for Anaheim, and went the entire route, holding the powerful Oilers to seven scattered blows.

Louie (Novikov) Neva, nightball's greatest pitcher, made a belated appearance in the Huntington Beach lineup, checking an Anaheim rally in the last of the eighth but failing to deliver a hit at the plate when the Oilers needed it in the ninth.

Anaheim nicked the offerings of Frank (Chico) Sabella for three singles and their first run in the fourth on successive blows by Cliff Edmondson, Floyd Montgomery and George Haggard. Huntington Beach tied it up in the sixth on Francis Conrad's infield hit, Orv Schuchardt's sacrifice, Al Reboin's infield hit and George Murray's perfect bunt, scoring Conrad.

Anaheim jumped into its winning lead, 2 to 1, in the last of the eighth when Fred Wiseman singled to left field. Montgomery drove a single near shortstop, and Preble walked, filling the bases. Rodgers' Bell's single through rightfield scored Wiseman and Montgomery. Rodgers' single through rightfield scored Wiseman and Montgomery. Rodgers' single through rightfield scored Wiseman and Montgomery.

Heavy Thiers singled and Conrad walked for Huntington Beach in the ninth, but McDonnell retired the side.

Wilbur Stunchfield probably will hurl for Anaheim against Neva at Huntington Beach tomorrow night, although McDonnell may opt for a last-minute starter. Lyle Morse still will club, contrary to current rumors.

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Bill Holt, the Syracuse, N. Y., golfer who packed his clubs in a trailer and came west, today found himself an official champion of champions. He won the title at Bing Crosby's Lakeside Country club yesterday with a 36-hole score of 73-68-141, but his playing was shaded by Johnny Goodman, Omaha's national amateur king.

U.S.C. Discards 'Two Teams'

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Los Angeles' double bid for the Pacific Coast conference championship—U. S. C. and U. C. L. A.—called out two beefy squads of gridiron hopefuls for the first workout of autumn today.

Howard Harding Jones, head man at Troy, started the fireworks as he hopes will boom Southern California back to national football ranking by reorganizing his coaching staff and dropping the two-team idea.

It worked all right until the boys began not to care which team they were on. This year with only one team to make, I think the boys will be fighting to get in the lineup," Jones said.

Westwood Will Spaulding, starting his 31st season as a coach with boyish enthusiasm, tempered by doubts about his vanished line men, had 75 Bruins answering his call at the University of California at Los Angeles.

With backfield men springing up like mushrooms in his squad, but lacking forwards, Spaulding hoped that reserves, sophomores and junior college transfers might plug the gaps in the U. C. L. A. line.

The Bruins oppose Oregon at the Coliseum Friday night, Sept. 24, and against that reckoning Westwood Will intends to concentrate on offense in two workouts daily. The defense, if it can, will take care of itself, he indicated.

The Trojans' first game is with the College of the Pacific Sept. 25. A week later they play Washington, 1936 champion.

COAST GAMES ONLY TWO WEEKS AWAY

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Football officially comes back to Pacific coast campuses today with the opening of fall practice. With only two weeks in which to shape up for opening games, two-day sessions were the general order. Coaches planned concentrated drills on signals and fundamentals of blocking, tackling and ball-carrying.

Most teams have had the kinks taken out by a couple of weeks of conditioning, including calisthenics and dieting.

All leading schools start practice today except University of San Francisco, which fired opening shots a week ago with eyes on a game here Sept. 19 with St. Mary's of San Antonio, Tex., first in this section.

University of California at Los Angeles will flip up the curtain on Pacific Coast conference competition in a night game against Oregon Friday, Sept. 24. Other schools will play for keeps starting Oct. 2.

Reputations will be at stake in non-conference contests Sept. 25. California vs. St. Mary's and Stanford vs. Santa Clara will share the spotlight in the San Francisco bay region. Washington State will play Gonzaga; Oregon State will meet Idaho; Southern California will open against Amos Alonzo Stagg's College of Pacific, and Montana will face Whitman.

The victory for the Cubs enabled them to stay within shouting distance of the Giants, who had the haul before pulling out a 9-7 decision over the best-loved "haters," the Dodgers.

shortly later, the Brooklyn management announced the signing of Grimes at a reported substantial salary increase.

The Yanks pulled two games out of the fire against the Red Sox. They took the opener, 3-2, with a run in the ninth and then Gehrig's 33rd homer as the payoff wallop, scored eight runs in the final frame to win the second game, 9-6.

The Tigers managed only an even break with the Indians, taking a nightcap, 10-5, on Hank Greenberg's two homers, after dropping the curtain raiser, 6-1. The Pirates pounded the Reds 7-6 in 10 frames and 8-2 in nine.

Four well-pitched games followed the Phillies splitting with the Bees and the Athletics doing the same with the Senators. The Phils won 2-0 and lost 1-0. The Sox won 2-0 and then went down 1-00. The White Sox socked the Browns, 10-1.

THREE OTHER CLUBS COULD USE ME—DEAN
ST. LOUIS. (AP)—Branch Rickey started it—now Jerome Herman Dean wants to finish it.

And when the dizzy one says finish, he refers to his connections with Messrs. Breardon and Rickey's gas house gang.

A suggestion here last night by the Cardinals' general manager that old die take a year off "as a tonic" and "build up his baseball morale" temporarily nonplussed Dean when he heard about it in Chicago.

"If that's the way they feel about me it would be better if they let me go," he countered. "I think three or four clubs could use me."

"I may not be doing so good now but I'll be O. K. by next season and I can't see any reason for leaving off a year."

Rickey said he made the suggestion in view of the big right-hander's record for the season. Diz dropped 10 to the Cubs yesterday after a lay-off since Aug. 26 because of his ailing flipper. He has won 13 games.

Diz was more voluble than his boss but showed unusual restraint in commenting on Rickey's opinion that voluntary retirement would be "the best thing that could happen to Dizzy," his description of the eccentric hurler as "not just a player—a big shot" and the added "he's not in the market; there's no market for him."

"All the time for the last seven years when I was winning games, and winning world series, I was a great guy and everything was okay. Now, when I ain't so good, everything's wrong with me."

Dean blamed his poor record recently on that left big toe broken in the all-star game.

'DIZ' PREFERS CHANCE WITH ANOTHER CLUB

Burleigh Grimes Is Reappointed Pilot of Brooklyn Dodgers

NEW YORK. (AP)—Ford Frick, president of the National League, today disallowed a protest by the Chicago Cubs on a disputed play in the second game of last Sunday's doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer
The St. Louis Cardinals looked very much today as if they were sharpening up a knife for the purpose of cutting off their collective noses to spite their equally collective faces.

If they were really serious about suggesting a year's retirement for Dizzy Dean, and were not just talking to throw a scare into baseball's No. 1 hurler, it would seem they'd be doing themselves more harm than good by shelving the greatest pitching arm in the game for that length of time, despite his eccentricities.

GIANTS HOLD LEAD

The row started by Branch Rickey with the retirement suggestion, and followed by Dean's plaintive plea for permission to trade himself, took the stage away from anything in the big time today. Playing second fiddle to the Rickey-Dean brasses were such other developments as the re-appointment of "Boiling Bolly" Grimes as chief umpire balter and manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers; the continuation of the Giants' 24-game lead in the National League race; the widening of the Yankees' American league edge to 12 full games, and the rise of Pittsburgh to third place in the National league and Cleveland to fourth in the American.

The Cards may have their reasons for talking about packing Dizzy's arm—as well as his ability to talk it out with anyone in the game—in mothballs for a year. These would include, of course, the fact that such a move would, as Rickey described it, "act as a tonic and build up his baseball morale as well as his arm."

But on the other hand Dizzy has given no evidence that his pitching warrants a year's retirement—and when he's right, he's somewhat better than a greenhand at fogging 'em in.

His ailments of the moment, he contends, are at worst only temporary. He's still one of the game's big drawing cards, as well as a piece of ivory that could return a tidy sum on the open market.

He certainly didn't look ready for a wheelchair yesterday as he pitched a five-hitter against the Cubs. Although he lost, 4-0, largely because of the clouting of Gabby Hartnett, a five-hitter isn't exactly getting your ears pinned back.

YANKS ANNEX TWO

The victory for the Cubs enabled them to stay within shouting distance of the Giants, who had the haul before pulling out a 9-7 decision over the best-loved "haters," the Dodgers.

They're Cocky But They're Capable Athletes

Dons Enlist Two 'Frisco Giants

Jaysee Champions Transfer Boyd to Guard; Bristow, Bouchard Report

Bill Cook, ever the "fisherman," hooked two more prized catches today which he added to his growing list of Dons who hope to hang on to the Southern California Jaycee football championship.

Both boys pack beef and hail from San Francisco. Bog Ganong, most publicized of the two, checked out a Don uniform yesterday at Poly field, where the Red and Black have established temporary headquarters before going into the Municipal bowl next Monday.

Coming down with Ganong, who may be the one to fill the gap at the pivot post left by Bob Holmes, was Jack Sadler, husky tackle, who must nurse a cold before checking out a suit.

Ganong is a 200-pounder and will give Freshman Jerry Nesmith and Jack Lentz quite a push for the center job. From all appearances he can hit like a ton of bricks and should be a valuable man in backing up the line.

Sadler must compete with Lettman "Rusty" Roquet and Dick Tauber, and Virgil Stevens and Peter Kotlar. He weighs 185.

Ed Bristow and Bill Bouchard, former Tustin athletes, have checked in. Delbert Holan, Lloyd Barnes and Donald Coleman worked out for the first time yesterday afternoon along with another Ocean-side player, Burnell Foussett, who also is a track man.

Running formation and blocking practice kept the players busy. Les McLennan of Ocean-side, Mac Beall, Dick Saunders, Oliver McCarter and Larry Timken were impressive in taking the pigskin through the line and flanking the ends.

Anaheim's Joe Anton was given considerable time at running guard, along with Danny Boyd, who has been transferred from center.

They're Cocky But They're Capable Athletes

SPORT SLANTS

By TOM (PAP) PAPROCKI

You'll find those cocky lads in every field of sport. They add spice and color to the competition. And unless they go so far as to become objectionable, they are handy fellows to have around.

About the cockiest golfer in the amateur ranks is Melvin (Chick) Harbert, the youngster who recently won the Michigan state open title with a sensational score.

At Alderwood (Portland, Ore.), during the national amateur tournament, he kept the gallery in an uproar. He talked to the ball as well as to the gallery, called his shots and made them, offered to make all sorts of bets and swaggereed along the fairways twirling his club like a handmaster on parade.

For all his tomfoolery Harbert showed some rare golf. He is going to be heard from. Very likely as soon as he stops chatting with the gallery and concentrates on his shots.

Tennis has its Bobby Riggs. Bobby cleaned up in the major eastern tournaments while Budge and his pals were abroad attending to Davis cup business. A year ago Riggs appeared in the east with a manager. The shock just about floored the tennis fathers and came mighty close to putting Bobby in the do-however before he was fairly started on his career. Bobby hasn't lost his cocky manner. But the manager is conspicuously absent.

The prize pop-off guy in baseball is, of course, Dizzy Dean. But even Diz has quieted down a bit since he had the worst season of his career. Lee Grissom, the Cincinnati southpaw, is exceedingly today, they've labelled him. A young giant with blinding speed, Lee took to baseball because he hated to work.

Early this season, after losing an early game by a single run, he walked up to Manager Chuck Dressen and said: "It was all a mistake, Chuck. When do I start another game? These guys are easy for me."

"It ain't that I'm afraid to work, ma'am, but there ain't much doing in my particular line."

"Why, what are you?"

"I'm a window-box weeder, ma'am."—Farm and Ranch.

HED LIKE TO GO ALONG
"Please, sir," said the clerk. "I'd like to have next week off if it is convenient."

"Oh, you would?" said his employer. "May I ask what for?"

"Well, my young lady is going on her honeymoon, and I'd like to go with her."—Tid-Bits.

CAREER MAN

DARTMOUTH WEAKER THAN LAST YEAR, BUT WILL PACK PUNCH

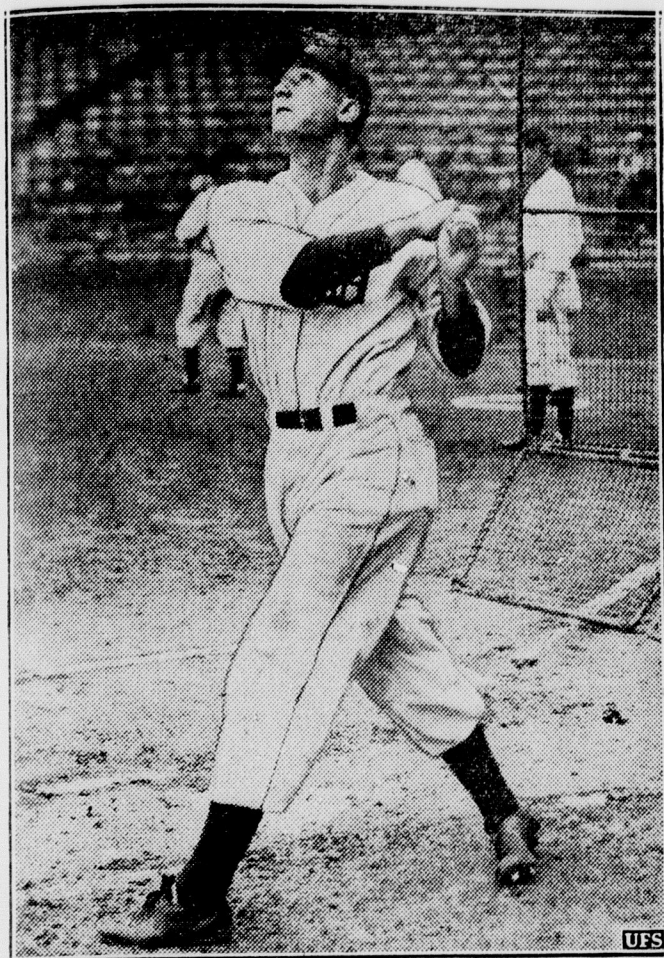

(Note.—This is one of a series dealing with prospects of major college football teams.)

Blak is a wealth of promising backfield material to install his new offense, which will probably be 60 per cent overhead, but he will miss the ill-fated Gordon Clark, one of the most consistent passers and punters on last year's squad, who was killed in a recent automobile accident.

The Dartmouth schedule: Sept. 25, Bates; Oct. 2, Amherst; Oct. 9, Springfield; Oct. 16, Brown at Providence; Oct. 23, Harvard at Cambridge; Oct. 30, Yale at New Haven; Nov. 6, Princeton at Princeton; Nov. 13, Cornell; Nov. 20, Columbia at New York.

ELKS WIN ON HOMERS, 7-3

Detroit's Sensational Rudy York

Rudy York, 24, rookie catcher for the Detroit Tigers, will develop into the home-run hitting sensation of the American league, says his manager, Mickey Cochrane. York went to Detroit from Milwaukee as a first baseman, substituted at third and was benched. Placed into the catcher's position, he proved an amazing hitter.

S. M. U. OPENS WITH ONLY SIX SENIORS

Aerial Trickery To Feature Attack Of Bell's New Eleven

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series on national college football prospects.)

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) Colonel Matty Bell, of the early twenties Centre college coaches, is really certain about only two things when mentioning his 1937 Southern Methodist Mustangs.

"We could be Southwest conference contenders—and then we could get the pants licked off us."

Which, Bell admits, is tops in fence straddling but the only way to figure a team with only six seniors on the squad and only one of two of them likely to be starters.

READY TO START

"For? Huh? I've never seen a bunch of youngsters so ready for a football season. Oh, I guess you could say they'll be better than last year's team. They've learned a lot since they pushed Fordham all over the field and got beat, 7-0."

Bell's major worries, and they've got the Colonel counting sheep at night, concern his tackles and left halfback. He figures one tackle still will be well filled by shifting Charlie Sprague, last year's stormy center, but is leery about the other. Bulky, 220-pound Leamon Phillips, one of the seniors he figures will crash the starting eleven, will be tried, while a 205-pound sophomore, Willie Curk, is another Bell hopes will blossom into a stout lineman.

For the left halfback post, Bell will try Henry Guynes, a senior he classifies as "the shiftest of all my backs." Guynes, never a regular, will take over kicking duties handled by last year's Bob Finley, one of the best of all southwest punters.

Aerial trickery again will play the chief role in the Mustang offense. Sturdy Jack Morrison, son of Ray Morrison, originator of the S. M. U. "aerial circus," will be the chief gunner of Mustang sky raids.

TOWERING RECEIVERS

Two towering pass receivers, Kansas Bill Dewell and Keith Ranspot, the former the club's sophomore sensation last year, ease Bell's worries as to who will gather in the heaves.

Chanting his signals and doing the heavy work at fullback will be Bob Belville, a 185-pound "hold-out" off last year's squad. Belville, although a sophomore in '36, saw every game from the sidelines because Bell felt he would learn more by watching than occasionally breaking into a senior backfield.

The Mustangs "a light club that would average 190 pounds," they against North Texas teachers Sept. 25 and then meet, on successive week-ends, Centenary, Washington University, Vanderbilt, Arkansas, Texas, Texas A. M., Baylor, U. C. L. A., Texas Christian and Rice Institute.

THE FLOUR AT FAULT

"I wish to complain," said Mrs. Newlwynd, "about the flour you sold me. It was tough."

"Tough, ma'am?" asked the assistant.

"Yes, tough! I made a pie with it and my husband could hardly eat it."—Vancouver Sun.

He's on the Fence

"We could be Southwest conference contenders—and then we could get the pants licked off us," comments Madison (Matty) Bell, coach of the Southern Methodist Mustangs.

DOT BUNDY IN SPOTLIGHT

Stunning Upset Over Alice Marble May Gain No. 1 Ranking

By GAYLE TALBOT

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP) For today, at least, there is a new star twinkling in the American tennis firmament—Chubby, honey-colored Dorothy (Dodo) Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif.

There is some reason to fear that Dorothy's light may be extinguished when she encounters Anita Lizana, the slick little senorita from Chile, in the semi-finals of the national championships tomorrow.

An unusual feature of the game was the abundance of fly balls. One team had only two assists. Blond Ira DeBusk, who struck out 16 Warner Brothers' players, will start for Irvine against Santa Barbara tonight. Blonde Lois Terry will be on the mound for the Lionettes.

There is a 15-cent admission charge to all games.

WALKER AND BARNES HIT FOR CIRCUIT

Leo Andreason Fans 11 Rivals; Irvine, Lionettes Compete

Two home runs by H. A. (Mickey) Walker and Ralph Barnes—combined with the masterful pitching of Leo Andreason tonight—Irvine, which disposed of Warner Brothers 10-0 in the first round, will go up against Santa Barbara in the last game at Fiedler field in Hollywood, Sunset and El Centro. The Lionettes, who boast the most impressive girl record in the south, will be making their first start against the Pasadena Cubs at 7:45 o'clock on Wrigley field, Los Angeles.

Andreason was in rare form for the Elks. Except for the second, in which he allowed three runs on four singles and a double, Leo pitched shutout ball and was never in danger after the Elks came to life at the plate in the fourth.

Walker, Santa Ana merchant who plays second base for the lodgemen, climaxed the fourth-inning rally by blasting a home run to right-center with Dave Styling and Fred Cartwright on the paths after a fielder's choice and double, respectively.

Ralph Barnes, left fielder, collected the other Elks' homer—with the bases empty—in the fifth frame. Santa Ana shoved across its final run in the seventh and last inning.

An unusual feature of the game was the abundance of fly balls. One team had only two assists. Blond Ira DeBusk, who struck out 16 Warner Brothers' players, will start for Irvine against Santa Barbara tonight. Blonde Lois Terry will be on the mound for the Lionettes.

DEMAND SANTIAGO DAM WATER AGREEMENT

BOARD MOVES TO BLOCK MORE RIGHTS

Plans Made to Sink Overflow Into Basin

A plan to sink and conserve water which overflows from the Santiago dam was revived seriously by the directors of the Orange County Water district yesterday afternoon, but at the same time they indicated they will seek a formal agreement to see that no further water rights are secured by present owners of the water.

Director William Wallop led a drive to demand a formal agreement with the Irvine ranch company, and Serrano and Carpenter water companies, joint holders of Santiago reservoir water rights, for an agreement that will preclude possibility of securing further rights to stored water.

The three companies now have rights to the capacity of the present dam, which amounts to 25,000 acre feet. But when the government raises the present dam another 30 feet in height, it will have an additional storage capacity of 22,000 acre feet. It is this extra water and overflow from the dam that the water district is concerned about.

Wallop said that in his opinion the Santiago dam already has robbed this valley of thousands of acre feet of water.

Directors yesterday said that if they decide to go through with sinking of pits in which to conserve Santiago creek water below the dam they will let contracts on the job. They advocated putting in two or three pits right away.

TO SINK DEEP PITS

The pits would be sunk to a certain depth, and then wells sunk down lower inside the pits to a depth of perhaps 200 or less feet.

Runoff water would be directed into the pits and sunk in the underground basin.

Chairman Willis H. Warner appointed a committee comprised of Directors William Wallop, C. A. Palmer and William Maerhan to make a thorough investigation and report back. They will study costs and feasibility of the plan, which Engineer Paul Bailey previously had informed them was too costly for the benefits derived.

The water district already is using one pit belonging to the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company for sinking water. This pit takes about 200 inches of water.

FATAL ACCIDENT SUIT SHIFTED

Transfer of a $10,000 damage suit against the Santa Fe railway for the grade-crossing accident June 29 which killed Milton W. Quandt, 29, to the federal district court will be ruled on Friday by Presiding Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

The railway has petitioned for removal of the suit to the federal court, agreeing to pay costs if the higher court finds the suit was wrongfully transferred. Removal was asked on grounds the action is a lawsuit between residents of different states, because the railway is a Kansas corporation.

Suit was brought by Mrs. Clara Quandt, mother of the crossing crash victim, who charges no signal was being operated to indicate that a train was approaching the Orangethorpe crossing, and that no warning whistle was sounded by the engineer.

Glad to Escape With Empty Purse

After staring into the muzzles of two revolvers Monday night, Mrs. Clyde Potter, 1010 West Fourth street, Santa Ana, today was glad to be home with her life and an empty purse.

She had been chatting with a friend, Mrs. H. B. Lehnberg of Casa Grande, Ariz., in a car parked in front of an apartment on Orange avenue in Long Beach when doors on each side of the car suddenly were pulled open and guns thrust into the car.

Two young, unmasked bandits demanded the women's purses and rings, emptied the purses and handed them back on request of the women.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter and their children, Roy and Anita, had spent the day in Long Beach visiting with the Lehnbergs. The women were parked in the car while they waited for their children to return from the pike.

Dust Bowl Refugees Beat Down Farm Wages

(Editor's Note: The Middle West farmer and his family, ruined by dust storms which destroyed their land, are coming to California. This migration is creating a welfare problem. Here is the second of three articles telling how Orange county and Santa Ana are affected by the influx.)

Many a Santa Ana's imagination has been captivated by fiction-like tales of the Middle West vast "Dust Bowl" and it inhabits. They have built up fanciful pictures of great caravans of dust refugees filing west to make new homes—with those who can't find work being fed out of the public pantry.

These colorful stories naturally have been exaggerated and over-dramatized. But the phenomenon itself actually has occurred and is occurring.

WONT ASK RELIEF

Several hundred of these dust bowl refugees have passed through this district within the past few weeks. Others have stopped off to search for work. Many have found it.

They're dead serious about wanting to work. One group is "prayed" to take relief—they could have had some of that back home when their once-fertile land blew away.

But this bunch is not too proud to do common orchard labor.

They're a tenacious lot, and when it comes to work, they won't take no for an answer. They'll literally camp on a potential employer's doorstep for a week if they think he has work to be done.

'BEAT ME TO IT'

"Some of those dust-bowl fellows came up to my house asking for work a few days ago," one Orange county rancher related.

"Poor fellas, they said they'd been blown out back home, and when I told them there wasn't anything to be done yet they asked me if they could camp out on the field for a few days in case something turned up."

"I fixed up a camping spot, and they moved in. Next morning when I got up, they'd already finished breakfast and I found they'd fed the stock, just out of appreciation. I went out to clean the garage, and they'd beaten me to it."

"Now I can't very well pass up."

Believe Prowler Was Real Thief

What neighbors believed to be just a prowler on Aug. 26 may actually have been the burglar who entered a ranch house on Brookhurst road and made off with two hot plates and a three-quarter bed, sheriff's deputies indicated today.

E. G. Barber of Hollywood, owner of the ranch, reported the burglary Tuesday, the first time he had been at the house since late in August.

Neighbors later told officers a suspicious-looking car had driven into Barber's driveway on the night of Aug. 26 with its lights out, and had hastily left when they started yelling questions at the driver.

Car Crash Victim Asks $25,000

Mrs. Ruth Soule, 19, who lost the lower part of her left leg as the result of a car-motorcycle accident early this year, today had filed suit in superior court against Earl L. Vite, driver of the car, for $25,000.

Mrs. Soule charges Vite was negligent and caused the crash at First and Flower streets, as a result of which her left leg was amputated below the knee. She was riding on the motorcycle, she states, with H. O. Stanbro. The complaint was filed by Albert Launer and Elmer Guy, Fullerton attorneys.

"Bring me a drink of water."

INVENTOR OF PRESS FEEDER STILL UNPAID

Tustin Man's Device Now Widely Used

Twenty-seven years ago Percy Rice of Tustin invented and patented an automatic suction feeder for a printing press. But with Mexican boys feeding presses for $3 a week, no one wanted it.

Ten years ago the patent rights expired. Since then the automatic feeder has been in constant commercial use, and Rice today is still making a futile attempt to collect.

SCANT REWARD

That story was related as one of the "pathetic romances of invention," in a talk before the Santa Ana Kiwanis club yesterday by James M. Abbott, Los Angeles patent attorney.

Rice's invention, Abbott told the Kiwanians, is called a "rice feeder," but having his name used is the only reward he ever got out of the device.

Abbott told the Kiwanians that California, next to New York, is the most productive state in the union in inventions. He cited the hotpot iron, auto bumper and vacuum cleaner as being among the patented devices invented in this state.

INDIVIDUALIST

The primitive inventor of the wedge lever, wheel and screw," Abbott said, "was the father of all rugged individualists. His ingenuity put him just one notch ahead of his fellows."

Present day inventors are of two types, he declared, one being the technician who is assigned the task of solving a production problem, the other being the ingenious man who gets an idea and sticks to it until he has fixed up a model that will work. Most of the intricate inventions today, the patent lawyer said, are made by the former group after laborious research.

Bert Lawler was chairman and President R. B. Newcom conducted the meeting.

What To Do—If Your Clothes Catch Fire

1. Do not run—that will fan the flames.
2. Wrap up in a rug, overcoat or some other heavy material. Drop to the floor and roll over slowly to smother the blaze. Do this even if you have no wrap.
3. Douse yourself with water if there's any around. Roll in the water that's spilled.
4. Cover your face with your arms and try not to inhale any flame.
5. Call a doctor.

If another person's clothes are afire you may have to knock him down to apply these measures, prescribed by the National Safety Council in Chicago. Don't hesitate if that is necessary.

If the person suffers from shock after the fire is out lay him on his back with head low.

While waiting for the doctor, keep the victim warm, rub his limbs toward the body, have him smell aromatic spirits of ammonia and drink water, tea or fruit juice to help keep the body fluids from being depleted.

Superior Judge G. K. Scovel of this county now is in San Diego hearing a water case, expected to last a month. In his absence, Judge L. N. Turrentine of San Diego is hearing probate cases here on Fridays.

TUBERCULOSIS WAR WAGED IN STATE

Dairy Situation Is Clearing Up, Report

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Slow but sure progress toward complete eradication of tuberculosis in California's dairy herds was reported today by Dr. A. E. Wight of the bureau of animal industry.

Although the state is one of only three in the union which have failed to reduce infection to less than one-half of one per cent, Dr. Wight, chief of the tuberculosis eradication division, said the situation in California was "looking up."

"The picture is very much better than formerly," said Wight, predicting funds appropriated by the last legislature would aid the task of eradication "immensely."

Thirty-seven of the state's 58 counties still are unable to qualify for placement on the modified accredited list, and until they complete the required testing of their cattle and reduce infection to the minimum allowed, California will not be officially designated as a "modified accredited area" by the agriculture department, he said.

Children Seldom Regret Required Music Lessons Later in Life

Should parents compel their children to practice their music lessons when they seem to detest it and show not the slightest interest?

That was "Doubtful Dad's" query to this department recently. His wife maintains that their 12-year-old son will become interested in his piano lessons later on.

Should a girl who fears the divorce evil marry? Her mother was divorced twice and two of her sisters are divorcees.

Both these correspondents asked for our readers' opinions. Following are two replies:

Dear Miss Stoddard: Just a note in answer to "Doubtful Dad's" query if they should force their 12-year-old son to continue his music.

When my brother and I were younger we both resented the fact that we had to practice, but due to our mother's persistence we had to keep at it.

Now that we are grown, neither of us would be without our music for the world and I believe the same will apply to their son. The practicing won't kill him. Let him keep it up. It helps to keep children out of mischief, too. Sincerely, THANKFUL LIL.

Dear Miss Stoddard: Just a word to the young woman who is afraid to marry because of divorce. Nine years ago I stood in the same place, only I had more to look back at. My mother had been unsuccessfully married five times. My grandmother, seven.

My sweetheart said "Somebody has to be first to do differently." During these nine years we have been wedded we haven't regretted it.

My experience has been that too intense a desire for peace makes trouble.

If you keep still about the things that trouble you, your husband has no way of knowing what is wrong and resentments pile up. A healthy row clears the atmosphere.

Also, you can't live another person's life. If you would like to change your husband to suit you better, would you like to be made over? Sincerely, ALICE.

And then we have more advice to our correspondents, a letter from a "Happy Wife" who tells of her own experience, in advising "A Friend."

Dear Miss Stoddard: I have followed your column for some time and through your answers to others have found answers to many of my own problems.

In your issue of Aug. 24, I read a letter signed "A Friend" asking if a girl who had sown wild oats, should tell?

I would like to give my experience. As a young girl I got into time through what I at that time thought was love. My child was born, but I was left alone.

Two years later I married a man whom I thought I loved. I did not tell him of my past. He thought the child was from a former marriage, but he found out and my home was just hades. Be-cause I let all ended in the divorce court it all ended in the divorce court.

Then I met the man I knew I loved and I knew also that there was only one way out, to tell him the true story rather than lose him after marriage. I told him and his answer was: "Darling, I love you for what you are today not for what you were before I met you. Who am I to throw stones at you?"

We were married and we are so

A merry evening of dancing and games ensued, for which many amusing prizes were later awarded to Miss Betty Johnson, Miss Jean Dowds, Miss Betty Miller, Howard Piper, Jimmie Dudley and Jimmie Elliott.

A lovely yellow-iced cake accompanied punch during the refreshment hour when Miss Betty opened the many pretty gifts that had been brought her. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were assisted during the evening by Mr. and Mrs. Barney Franque and Miss June Gates.

SUPPER-DANCE GIVEN BY BETTIE LACY

Planning a series of intimate little parties that will coincide with the launching of the high school year, Miss Bettie Lacy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Lacy, last night entertained an eightsome at dinner and dancing.

Church Group Starts New Season

With the inspiring theme of "Opening Windows" presented for their year's activity, members of the Woman's society of the First Baptist church launched their season yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. Russell Crouse presiding for the first time as president.

A delightful pre-view of the year's program occupied the afternoon hours, with each month devoted to some one phase of the general theme. Many of the sketches were charmingly costumed, and all gave promise of a pleasurable season.

Taking part in these preliminary presentations were the Mesdames E. A. Bell, W. A. Atkinson, E. Severin, Earl Fretvert, P. G. Kilburn, George Lippincott, Franklin West, E. U. Farmer, M. M. Holmes, and the Misses Jane Severance, Pauline Cave, Elaine Harlow, Lula Minter, Grace Roberts, Mildred Marchant, and Carol Miller.

Mrs. Crouse made introductory remarks between skits, and also presented Mrs. J. Leslie Steffensen, vocalist, and Miss Beulah Parker, pianist, in several charming numbers.

Mrs. C. W. Brakeman displayed the group's financial project of the year, a miniature cathedral window, the mosaic of which is added as contributions are made.

Mrs. W. A. Atkinson closed with prayer. In conjunction with the "Opening Windows" theme, Mrs. Harry Evan Owens led devotionals on the subject, "Outlook Skyward."

The afternoon was preceded by a morning session of sewing and White Cross projects, with Miss Grace Roberts in charge of the latter, and Mrs. W. F. Dietrich in charge of the former.

Mrs. A. F. Hill led the opening prayer. Luncheon between sessions was particularly delightful, with special honor being paid those whose birthday anniversaries fell in August and September. Mrs. H. T. Phelps received particular attention because her anniversary was yesterday.

A musical interlude was provided by Miss Parker and Mrs. Steffensen led in song. Members particularly enjoy an impromptu talk given by Miss Viola Hill, recently returned—missionary from China.

Previous to the afternoon's theme program, the lovely new yearbooks of the group were passed out, and an interesting little play, written by Mrs. A. F. Hill and directed by Mrs. Earl Morris, was put on by the yearbook committee. Serving on this latter were Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Steffensen, Miss Lula Minter, Miss Ida Nay, and Mrs. Charles Hays.

"With eye askance, I view the muscular proportioned limb. Transformed to a lean shank!" —COWPER.

A very thrilling sight to a student of nature is that of plant growth. It is quite bewildering to watch certain sudden outbursts of growth, the maturity, and later the fruition. And then to watch the plant rest without growth through the winter. We may carry this growth activity just a little further and consider the growth from the tiny seed or embryo through its growing period and its final development as a full grown shrub or tree.

Growth depends upon three fundamental principles. These are temperature, light, and humidity.

There is a low temperature at which plants refuse to grow and a high temperature at which plants cease growing. In between these points may be found the point of maximum growth. These temperatures vary with the different plants, but generally plants cannot grow below 40 degrees, grow their best at about 85 degrees, and cease growing at 100 degrees.

Light is quite essential to growth, but here again there can be too much. It is well understood that certain plants can thrive in more sun than others. This is the reason for shading some and planting others in exposed places.

In reality plants grow better in darkness than in the light. During the light period a plant is taken up with food storage and tissue building that growth becomes subordinate. Moisture transportation is so great during the day that there isn't enough water in the tissues to allow for an extra swelling of the plant cells. At night this transpiration is minimized and the excessive moisture allows for cellular expansion. Too much darkness does not grant enough time for food storage and the plant becomes spindling and yellow.

The effect of humidity upon plant growth is readily seen, and cellular growth is dependent on the moisture present in the air. The more difficult it becomes for the moisture to leave the plant and this allows for greater plant growth.

Poems Are An Outlet For Deepest Feeling

Let Poetry Enrich Your Life

What comfort in well-loved poetry, when your heart overflows with sadness or joy! There's courage for the lonely mood in Frank L. Stanton's lilted lines: "When you feel like sighing sing, Keep a-go!" And who has described better than Elizabeth Browning the intensity of a great love? "I love thee to the depth and breadth and height My soul can reach..." You do remember the tenderness of Eugene Field's "Little Boy Blue?" "The little toy dog is covered with dust, But sturdy and staunch he stands..."

Or the sound philosophy Ralph Waldo Emerson puts into his delightful dialog between a mountain and a squirrel. Says the squirrel: "... all is well and wisely put; If I can not carry forests on my back, Neither can you crack a nut." You'll find these and many other poems in the new Home Service, our 32-page booklet. Old favorites by Longfellow, Riley, Poe, Burns, Scott, Tennyson, Wordsworth, and others.

Send 10c for your copy of World's Best-loved Poems to Santa Ana Journal Home Service, 117 East Fifth Street, Santa Ana, Calif. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

— By — ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD. — Samuel Pokrass is the fourth, fifth and sixth Ritz brother. Wild as they are, Sam is wilder. Loud as they are, Sam is louder. Three of them to gether can talk your ear off and drive you nuts. Sam, aided only by his wailing arms and the terrific energy of a talking machine, can do it alone.

Don't misinterpret that. Sam is a great guy. He's been speaking English only eight years, and intimate association with Gregory Ratoff hasn't helped any. Sam has a terrific time expressing himself, so that by the time he's told of his life story over a plate of fried chicken you feel as chipper as what's left of the chicken.

HIS MUSIC GETS YOU But what a life story—and what a musician! Sam is short and pudgy and beetle-browed. He doesn't look like Robert Taylor, but when he sits down at a piano you don't laugh. Instead you're likely to get a funny feeling in the throat—even when he's doing classical variations on "St. Louis Blues" as Mozart's Wagner, Beethoven, and Brahms.

He can play the piano when the keys are covered with cloth but that's just a trick, like playing the violin on a trapeze the way he did with a circus in France.

Sam arranges and writes songs for the Ritzes and has done other songs for 20th Century but he's traveled a circuitous path to Hollywood. In his native Kiev, Russia, he was a child prodigy of the violin. At seven, when his father lost his slaughterhouse business, Sam joined an orchestra and started supporting his family. At nine he composed his first hit song, "Two Roses." He's had, since then, about 250 hit songs in Russia and a number all over the world. Remember "Volga Boatman" and "Otych Chernys"? And the score for "Chauve Souris" All Sam's and the score for the Shubert musical, "Cyrano de Bergerac," besides. He studied under masters in Germany, France, Vienna. Aftermath of war and revolution found him in Paris, broke. In Marseilles a wealthy Moroccan was enchanted by his playing, hired him—and in Morocco Pokrass found himself musician to a harem. Honest. When Abd-el-Krim became a war man, Sam made his getaway.

Back in Paris, he got in the money once more—wrote for Rene Dely brothers, Chevalier, Sasha Guitry and Yvonne Printemps. Wrote a ballet. When he met J. J. Shubert Sam thought it was Franz, and signed to come to America. He says when Shubert asked for a hit tune he played variations on "My Blue Heaven" and "All Alone" and Shubert never knew the difference.

ALMOST DEPORTED His adventures as an immigrant are funny and incredible. He was almost deported immediately. He was deported from Ellis island, he finally was assigned to score "Cyrano" for Shubert. After six months, broke and hungry and no longer under contract, he became stooge to Jack Pepper in vaudeville. When "Cyrano" opened at St. Louis Sam was stooging across the street from the world premiere theater.

During his hungry days in New York, Hollywood twice came to his rescue. He happened to see the films "Delicious" and "Dis-honored" and recognized his own music being used. He collected. In Hollywood he resumed his New York relations with the Ritzes, and Zanuck signed him. He's on the same lot with Ratoff, who used to sing his songs in Russia. Ratoff who is almost but not quite as incredible as Sam Pokrass.

'THIN ICE' TO END TONIGHT

Breaking all attendance records for the year, "Thin Ice," starring Sonja Henie, the "One in a Million" girl, will show for the last time tonight at the West Coast theater with a second attraction, "Hopalong Rides Again," latest of the popular western series.

"Thin Ice" was scheduled to run for seven days, but because of public demand it was held over for an extra two days. Tonight is the last time it will be seen here. Sparkling with songs and splendor, the world-famous feminine ice skater is starred with Tyrone Power in a fast-moving, gay spectacle of romance and music. The big cast includes Arthur Treacher, Raymond Walburn, Joan Davis, Sid Rummant and others.

"Hopalong Rides Again" is an action-packed story of rustlers, who employ dynamite on a big scale to accomplish their criminal purposes. Blazing six-guns and the thunder of hooves resound throughout the dramatic picture, which carries a tender love story. The cast is headed by William Boyd as "Hopalong Cassidy."

Tomorrow the West Coast will show "100 Men and a Girl," starring the noted singer, Deanna Durbin, supported by the noted composer-conductor, Leopold Stokowski and his orchestra, Adolphe Menjou and Alice Brady. Second feature will be "Charlie Chan on Broadway," starring Warner Oland again as the wily Chinese sleuth in a thrilling mystery play.

'NEW FACES' AT WALKER'S

Sparkling with originality and freshness of treatment "New Faces of 1937" opens at Walker's theater today, along with "Behind the Headlines," a story of "from the spot" radio news-reporting. "Wayward Pups," a colored cartoon, and a newsreel will complete the bill. "New Faces of 1937" features Harriet Hilliard, Joe Penner, Parkyarkarkus and Milton Berle as well as several new discoveries.

Penner and Parkyarkarkus have a running feud throughout the story which supplies the highlights of the comedy, but they have a wealth of assistance from the score of funsters in the cast. Dozens of intriguing dance routines combine with the hilarity of the film.

In "Behind the Headlines" with Lee Tracy featured, the drama, comedy, romance and activities of a news broadcaster's career are shown. Dealing with the rivalry between Tracy, who covers exciting news occurrences with a portable transmitter, and the newspaper reporters whom he is continually scooping, the picture offers a fast-moving and thrilling screen-drama. Diana Gibson has the feminine lead in this new offering.

Witness Gone; Charge Dropped

You can't prosecute a case when the complaining witness disappears, puzzled police admitted today as they pressed a search for S. K. Rich, who once lived at the Lincoln hotel here.

Rich's disappearance caused police to seek dismissal of auto theft charges against two Santa Ana men, Johnny Calderon and Jesus Martinez, in justice court here Tuesday. The men were charged with taking Rich's car without his consent early Aug. 13 and driving it to Anaheim. When the preliminary hearing came up Tuesday, Rich could not be found.

Divorcee's Daughter

by VIVIAN RADCLIFFE

Janice Flagg is the young, attractive daughter of Ogden Flagg, Chicago millionaire, but her mother, divorced from Flagg, has taught Janice to hate her father. Her mother, a discouraged Hollywood extra, has committed suicide. Janice's closest friends are Helene Mills and Lawrence Worthington, the latter an elderly admirer of her mother's, who now wants to marry Janice. Janice has been taking a secretarial course. She spurns a plea from her father for her to live in luxury with him and her sister Ivonne, in Chicago. She tells Helene she is going to New York to make her own way.

CHAPTER IV

IT SEEMED to Janice, as she sat in Dorothy Dane's exotic living room watching the actress move restlessly about, that Lady Luck was smiling on her.

Her heart was in her throat, choking her with excitement.

Miss Dane was as lovely off the screen as on. Janice's dislike of everything connected with movies melted as she realized Miss Dane had not found her wanting. She was going to New York as the companion of little Dolores, who must spend the ensuing six months with her father in accordance with the court's decree.

Miss Dane paused, looking anxiously at Janice. "You won't mind stopping off at Champaign for two weeks? Dolores must visit her paternal grandparents."

Champaign, Illinois — Chicago, Illinois — Janice hesitated only a moment. Probably her father would not be in Chicago. He seemed to spend most of his time in New York or Florida, at this time of the year.

"That will be all right," Janice admitted a little breathlessly. Because Dorothy Dane had known her mother subtly during a recent picture, she was asking no references, accepting her as an appropriate guardian, despite her youth, for the six-year-old child. Not a word of Lois Flagg or the ordeal Janice had been through. Ah, Dorothy Dane was kind! "Of course you want to get away from here," Miss Dane spoke quickly. "Have you friends in New York?"

As Janice mutely shook her head Dorothy frowned. "Well, let me warn you, my ex-husband is a ladies' man. You're not beautiful but you are lovely—and whole-some. Don't let him turn you into a head with helpful plans for your future in New York. Just a word to the wise, my dear, for I feel a certain responsibility, as the one making your trip possible."

A WORD to the wise! Janice smiled—almost. There were two sides to every broken marriage, and Robert Craymore could not be so bad if the court permitted him the custody of his daughter half of each year.

"I do appreciate that," Miss Dane. Janice murmured. "Then I'm taking Dolores to New York?" She could not control the excited quaver in her voice and her blue eyes seemed to dance with joy.

Monday morning Janice stood on the wind-swept flat waiting for Miss Dane's secretary to bring Dolores. Helene was a little tearful as the time for departure drew close. She looked at the plane taking on mail, the pilot and co-pilot busy with departure details. Lawrence Worthington stood disconsolately beside them, his arms filled with magazines and flowers.

A black limousine sped up, stopped. A little girl hopped out, dancing up and down in her excitement, a pretty child very like her mother. The chauffeur attended to baggage. Miss Dane's secretary hurried forward, one hand tightly clasping the child's arm.

Janice smiled and met her with in a few feet of the steps leading into the cabin of the plane. "I'm Janice Flagg," she said quietly, though her heart seemed to be in her throat, choking her with excitement. She looked down at Dolores, met the wide questioning eyes of the child and smiled in a friendly way.

"Here's everything in this envelope," the secretary explained breathlessly. "Minute instructions. You wire back at every stop. Read the instructions carefully as soon as you take off."

Janice crushed the big envelope in her ample purse turned to Lawrence. She kissed her friend good-bye, shook hands with the man. The hostess helped her with her packages. Letters of introduction. Lawrence called and held out numerous envelopes addressed in his strong, bold handwriting.

Absently she took them. Absently, when the plane got underway, she glanced through them. One was addressed to Robert Craymore, Attorney-at-Law. Dorothy Dane's husband, whom she had warned Janice against. At the corners of her lips, Janice tore up all Lawrence's letters of introduction. She would not need them.

MYSTERY ABBREVIATION...

What does O. K. abbreviate? One of the most popular of all abbreviations, no one has yet been able to track it to its source. Webster suggests that it might have been derived from the Choctaw Indian word, "Okeh," meaning "It is so, and in no other way." There are a good many other opinions on the matter, however. One of them traces its origin to the town of Aux Cayes (pronounced "Okay") in Santo Domingo from whence the best tobacco and rum were once imported. During the Presidential campaign of 1832 Andrew Jackson's opposition started a story to the effect that he had originated "O. K." under the belief that he was abbreviating "all correct" and misspelling it as "oll korrek."

Judge Stump

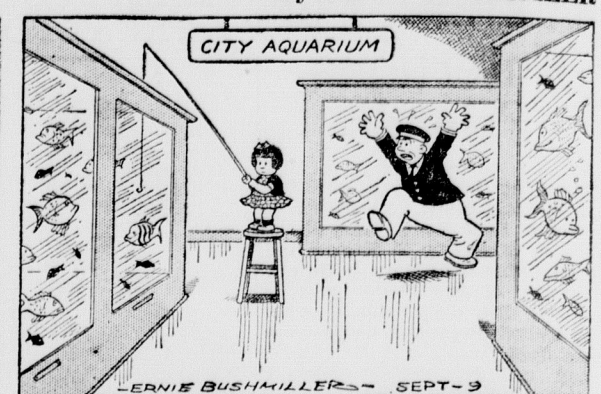

Dear Judge: Has anyone ever asked another person to "pass the salt, please," without getting the pepper too?

H. T.
My jurist friend, Cupwith Culpepper, once attempted an exhaustive test of this question. It ended at Hotel DeBunks, Tuslin, when he asked the lady beside him to pass the salt. Behind him sat a superstitious gentleman who had just spilled the salt and believed it necessary to throw salt over his left shoulder in such an emergency. Judge Culpepper got the salt, all right--all over him.

EDITORIAL PAGE

Sept. 9, 1937

This newspaper stands for a reunited people, for independence in all things political, and for honest journalism in its news and editorial columns.

Santa Ana Journal

Published daily except Sunday by John P. Scripps Newspapers at 117 E. Fifth Street, Santa Ana, Calif. Braden Finch, editor; E. F. Elstrom, business manager.

Subscription rates: By mail, $7.50 a year; by carrier, 65 cents a month; from newsboys and news stands, 3 cents a copy. Entered as second-class matter May 1, 1935, at the postoffice of Santa Ana, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Works Fine at the Postoffice

One way to size up an idea is to talk to the men who work with it day after day.

So we dropped into the postoffice to find out what people there think about civil service as applied to public jobs such as those in the fire and police departments.

Here's what three of them had to say:

John Cleary, postal savings clerk and member of the civil service board: "Nobody here would consider being out from under civil service if it could be avoided. Probably the best thing about civil service protects the personnel against personal grudges and grievances."

George Canfield, parcel post clerk: "There is less political pressure on a civil service employee than on one simply working under an appointment. This means that the worker thinks more about doing the job right than about mending political fences." Arthur L. Kubitz, stamp clerk: "Civil service properly used is a good thing. It saves turnover and upsets on the force over political reasons and results in increased efficiency. I wouldn't like to work on a government job that didn't have it."

Civil service applied to the local police and fire departments would have the same beneficial results, in our opinion, as it has had in the postoffice.

We hope that city council views the fire and police department civil service petitions in this light when the request comes up later on for action.

Herbert's move to rejuvenate his party doesn't seem to be getting anywhere. Maybe his party doesn't want to be rejuvenated by him.

Dog-Gone That Man

It's a little late in the summer to be starting a national debate on such a silly subject as the relative merits of plump wives versus thin ones.

Yet that is what a silly writing fellow back in New York has done. Why couldn't he wait until vacation time next year instead of springing it on an unsuspecting nation just as school's starting and there's the winter's fuel supply and overcoats and whatnot to think about? Or, better yet, why need he have brought up the subject at all?

This fellow suggests that plump wives are more economical because they're always dieting and so don't eat much; that they're better cooks because they dote on preparing fine dishes they themselves would like but can't eat; that they have better dispositions because they worry less; that they are better "providers" because they don't begrudge hubby a little spending money; and, finally, that plump wives are better bridge players.

The fellow who started all this undoubtedly should be committed to an institution.

But, since he has started it, and because we do not believe in dodging issues, we'll cast our ballot on the question.

In our judgment, the best wives are plump (or thin) wives.

Yes, our wife is a little on the plump (or thin) side. What of it?

When the Japanese bombs don't reach non-combatants, the Chinese do. Sort of informal war, you might say.

Motorists and School Children

Santa Ana's 7,000 bright-faced school boys and girls will be trundling back to classrooms Monday for another dose of learning.

They'll have to cross busy streets amid heavy flows of automobile traffic in many parts of the city.

It's time to sound a warning to autoists: "Be extra careful about your driving."

At most schools there'll be crossing signs and guards as timely cautions; but youngsters will cross the streets in many places where there are no signs and no guards.

In such locations it will be up to the motorist himself to see that nothing goes amiss and that the youngsters—so careless and carefree sometimes—get every protection.

Parents, too, should impress upon their offspring the need for extreme care in crossing thoroughfares. Youngsters should not depend on automobile drivers to do all the safety work. The coroner's records show that such confidence is entirely misplaced.

A child killed or injured in traffic means not only tragedy for the stricken family, but also suffering for the unfortunate driver.

Maybe the county employees will get their depression pay cuts restored in time for Christmas shopping in 1938.

Avoid Crowds and Hysteria

Although the infantile paralysis epidemic which has been slowly spreading elsewhere has not yet invaded Santa Ana, and, we hope, will not, it nevertheless behooves everyone here to exercise all precautions against infection.

One thing is to avoid worry and hysteria. Those are psychological factors themselves which encourage the disease. Another thing is to avoid crowds and overexertion. The thing to do, if any symptoms appear in any member of the family, is to summon medical aid immediately, and follow instructions to the letter.

Medical science is making a determined fight against this scourge of youth. There is every certainty that it will be subjugated in time, just as yellow fever, smallpox, tuberculosis and other great plagues have been brought under control.

Researchers of Stanford university believe they are close upon the trail of a sure weapon against it. Let us hope they are about to score a new triumph over disease.

Security in Russia is a whole lot more uncertain than the outcome of a Soviet trial.

Note on Civilization

From the country of Kant, Goethe, Kris Kringle and Hitler came this dispatch: "Berlin.—The sale of gas masks to civilians began today on schedule in the Berlin districts of Spandau, Neukölln and Tempelhof. Purchase for men, women and children at a price of approximately $2 was obligatory."

FAIR Enough

Lewis Takes In Too Much Territory

By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK.—One loud flaw in the reasoning of John L. Lewis as he presents his demands on the national government is his contention that, as spokesman for the C. I. O., he speaks for all labor in the United States. At least that seems to be his contention when he refers to the President as one who supped at labor's table and then cursed with equal fervor and fine impartiality both labor and its adversaries.

True, the President and his party supped at the table of John L. Lewis and the C. I. O., but Lewis and the C. I. O., are not labor in the all-embracing sense of the word. There is still the A. F. of L. with a membership comparable to that of Mr. Lewis' union, and there are still more working people outside both organizations than there are within the two rival groups. Certainly Mr. Lewis isn't speaking for the A. F. of L., which certainly is composed of labor, and neither is he speaking for the great majority who are not organized at all.

C. I. O. INCLUDES REBELS

In fact, Mr. Lewis does not even speak for the entire membership of the C. I. O., because there are many members of that organization who are members under duress and stand to lose their jobs under the closed shop agreement if they should quit. Some members of the C. I. O. have been bulldozed into membership and others have been "delivered" by majority vote of unions which they joined when those unions belonged to the A. F. of L.

Having been "delivered" by majority vote they must string along as nominal C. I. O. people, even though they are still opposed to Lewis and the C. I. O., and voted against affiliation with his outfit. As mere statistics, such unwilling members can not be distinguished from the enthusiasts, but in politics they do not belong to Lewis and he can't declare them against anyone.

Though fifty-one willing members may drag in forty-nine unwilling associates and make them pay dues and strike on occasion nobody can compel compliance with a decision of a majority. Neither can Lewis deliver them to the President in the event of a deal between them.

Mr. Lewis is correct when he says the President cursed with equal fervor and fine impartiality, but he takes liberties when he says labor was the party of the first part. The President's curse, as Mr. Lewis calls it, was delivered against a state of affairs in which the C. I. O. undertook to drag unwilling labor into its ranks and threatened massacre in case troops were not called to close the mills.

It was all right to use troops to keep men off their jobs; but it was a betrayal of labor to use the same force to protect from massacre men who wanted to work and had not given the C. I. O. authority to represent them.

HOW ABOUT COMMUNISTS?

By the same reasoning that Mr. Lewis employs in his claim on the President's political gratitude, by and the C. I. O. might be held to be indebted to the Communists, for he has supped with the bolsheviks much the same as Mr. Roosevelt supped with Lewis and his group. The Communists find the C. I. O. much to their liking, have given aid and comfort to the organization and have found themselves welcome. At some future time in similar circumstances they might remind him of this and ask him to sing for his supper, even as he asked Roosevelt.

Anyway, Lewis sounds a phoney note when he suggests that he and his C. I. O. have any choice but to support Roosevelt in the last election. There was nobody else that they could have supported, and if Lewis himself had tried to jerk his membership over to Alf Landon or Earl Browder he would have busted the rope. But he claims gratitude for an act of self-interest, and has been trying ever since to compel the President to swing a towel in his corner in his own political fight for the control of all organized labor. He is also trying to unload the blame and avoid the discredit due the leader who made a spectacular mess and failure of the big strike in steel.

When Mr. Lewis undertakes to speak for all labor in the United States, he is like those habitually letter writers who say: "All right-thinking people believe" or, "Every good citizen will vigorously oppose." He takes in much more territory than he has any authority to represent, and this is not to forget, either, that there are a certain proportion of captives among those for whom he may legally claim the right to speak.

Science teaches us that the average human body is worth about 93 cents, which shows that the professional politician is really worth about 63 cents more than he seems to be.

FLOWERS The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—The President will definitely visit the Pacific Coast late this month or early in October.

To ward off the usual deluge of invitations and political conjectures, doubt is still being cast on his plans. But privately he is all set to make the transcontinental trip. The only thing that could keep him from doing so would be a development in the Far East making it imperative for him to remain in Washington.

Great efforts will be made to minimize the political significance of the junket. The President will insist that his primary object is to visit his only daughter, Mrs. Anna Dall Boettiger, in Seattle. However, it is a safe bet he will make several, or more, addresses while enroute. And with the political situation what it is, anything he says is sure to have political implications.

Certainly the anti-administration Democrats through states he travels will be acutely alert for any hostile gesture toward them. In political circles there is much lively conjecture over what the anti-New Dealers will do about visiting his train.

Some of the politicians are offering wagers that the boys, despite their strong personal antipathy, will be on hand when Roosevelt rolls into their bailiwicks. It will be interesting to see just what they do.

LIFE BEGINS . . . Here is a cheering word for women over 40.

As reported by the Democratic Digest, a Roosevelt, in response to a question whether young women are more capable of holding business positions than women over 40, replied:

"I certainly do not think so. Women over 40 should have acquired experience and be more valuable, as long as they retain their health and ability to adapt themselves to working with other people, if necessary even to work in new ways."

SECURITIES ACT JOKER The Securities and Exchange commission has given a new twist to the old adage, "There is more than one way to skin a cat."

Contrary to general belief, the SEC has no authority to compel a company to modify its financial practices or cease practices the commission considers unsound. A concern can do practically anything it wants as long as it reports its activities in the registration statement that must be filed with the SEC to float an issue of stock or bonds.

The only weapon the commission has is the power of publicity. That would be ample if investors could easily understand the complicated registration statements, and also take the trouble to read them. The difficulty is that they can't and don't.

To offset its lack of regulatory power, the commission has quietly been taking advantage of a little joker in the Securities act to protect stockholder interests. An illustration of how this indirect strategy works is the case of the Ohio Public Service company.

USEFUL AMENDMENTS On Aug. 4 the firm filed a statement with the SEC for a $32,000, 000 security issue. Under the law 200 days must elapse before a registration can become legally effective.

From time to time between Aug. 4 and 24, the utility filed with the commission certain amendments to its original statement. These changes were made in the belief that they did not affect the 20-day time limit.

Ordinarily, that is the practice of the SEC. But what the company did not know was that the law is so written that the commission may, if it so desires, require registrants to wait 20 days after their last amendment has been received.

It was this unknown joker that the SEC used to crack down on the Ohio utility.

$344,000 ITEM Aug. 24 arrived. The company was all set to sell its securities. But the SEC made no announcement of the registration statement. Excitedly an official of the firm called up by long distance.

Pleasantly, he was informed of the commission's power to extend the time limit. Then, a little more sharply, he was advised that the SEC viewed with strong disapproval a transfer of $344,846 from the company's reserve for replacements to earned surplus—where the money could be readily passed on in the form of dividends to the concern's sole common stockholder, Henry L. Doherty's giant Cities Service corporation.

Also, the SEC indicated distaste for the utility's agreement with Halsey, Stuart & Co., underwriters of the issue, to give the latter first call on future bond flotations.

"In view of these matters," the SEC concluded, "we think it is in the best interest of everybody concerned that you delay the sale of your bonds for another two weeks."

What happened at the offices of the company is not known; but the next day the SEC received another amendment transferring the $344,846 back to reserve for replacements and eliminating the Halsey, Stuart deal.

Forthwith the commission approved the stymied registration statement.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people all up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

LET'S GET OUT!

To the Editor: The United States should remove its military forces from the war zone in China, immediately, and thereby remove all excuse for any "mistakes" on the part of the combatants. There is also no question that property owned by American citizens will be destroyed, but why should the life of any soldier or sailor be sacrificed to protect the dollars invested there? Furthermore, the Americans should be given an opportunity to leave the war zone, but if they care to stay in China they do so at their own risk. Let the United States get out of China and stay out until the warring nations come to their senses. Let's not become embroiled in this conflict, but devote all our energies to helping both China and Japan to a peaceful solution of their problems.

AGAINST WAR

To the Editor: Thank you for giving people an opportunity to say that we should not go to war. The United States could better afford to pay for every cent of American investment over there, than to send the finest of its youth out to be sacrificed—not to speak of all that follows in any war's train.

RAIN ON THE ROOF

If I had a slingshot and the old aim held good, I could shoot pebbles from my office window onto a building where six men are doing a job of re-roofing.

That is, they were doing a job of re-roofing until today. Today the roof is all ready for new tar and pebbles, but there's not a workman in sight and it is now very close to 10 o'clock in the morning.

It isn't quite as simple as it sounds, either, for black rain clouds are rolling up out of the southwest. If the roof needed re-roofing before—and I must assume it did—it probably will leak like the proverbial sieve if that black cloud starts to work in earnest.

The workmen on the roof hit the ball pretty well for two straight days. But today is Saturday, and they won't be back on the job until Monday morning.

Meanwhile, the rain may fall, the roof may leak, and the building manager who gave the six men a six-day job may be heavily penalized by what damage rain can easily do to the upper stories of his building.

I said the six men on the roof hit the ball pretty well for the first two days of the job. I noticed that they were down a little late Friday afternoon.

I was anxious to see them begin to pour the tar. The five on the roof had removed all the old gravel and set new gravel out in orderly piles across the black expanse of tar felt, or whatever the foundation of such a roof may be.

They had swept the roof free from dirt and dust, and the one man on the ground had built a roaring black-smoked fire under their tar kettle. Then, I noticed, their activity waned. The fellows on the roof pecked away at imaginary dust spots then inspected the whole expanse four or five times, stopping once in a while to make signs to the kettle-tender five stories below them.

Then, all of a sudden, and long before the so-called white-collar men in my office could quit for the day, they left the roof and went home. I fully expected to see them back at work this morning, but it's Saturday, and they have a five-day week, and the rain's coming, and the whole thing does not make sense to this old-time working stiff.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE AP Science Editor

NEW YORK.—There are reasons for believing there is life on the moon, says William H. Pickering, one of the best known astronomers.

He finds these in color changes in some of the moon's craters, the mountains which exactly resemble the earth's volcanic and meteoric craters. He says he believes he has seen tinges of red and green, indicating vegetation. The growth can be either hardy plants or bacteria.

The color changes wax and wane with the coming of the moon's daytime, which lasts half a month. The known fact that the moon has no air has been accepted as making any form of life there impossible. The moon hasn't enough gravitational pull to hold an atmosphere but there might be a few traces of gases close to its surface.

WHIMSIES

DAY BY DAY With O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK.—Somehow a couple of writers exchanging punches appeals to the news rooms. Perhaps because such fisticuffs are so rare and that scribbles are associated with a certain aestheticism. The most recent of the mix-ups was that between Ernest Hemingway and Max Eastman.

While there were only two or three actual eyewitnesses the bars and grills buzzed with a hundred versions for the next ten days. Hemingway was knocked galley-west across a desk with an upper cut. Eastman was slipped with a book and fainted and so on.

Hemingway made some crack about having a chestnut and that was duck-soup for the reporters and paraphraser. No wonder he sailed hastily for Spain the next day. Anyway it proved again the public will look upon a fist fight between literati as only hanky-panky.

Sinclair Lewis and Theodore Dreiser had a go several years ago at a dinner Ray Long gave at the Metropolitan club. I have heard at least a dozen eyewitness versions. The truth is nobody saw the scrap. Dreiser invited Lewis into a private room and delivered a sharp smack or so.

Then there is the following, outraged fellow who roars into the news rooms to lick the editor. I saw but one of the breed, peeping out from my reserved seat under the copy desk to which I hastily slid when he arrived. It was in East Liverpool, O., about 3 a. m. and he had just come down from the West Virginia mountains, wild, woolly and full of fleas. Our editor was a sawtooth, thin and bookish fellow gazing upon the world through enormously thick glasses. But had plenty of red corpuscles. He permitted the bully to shout awhile until he passed an epithet reflecting on the editor's mother. Like a wild cat he was at his throat, scratching, kicking, biting and uttering a strange sound that sounded for all the world like a squealing pig. They rolled down the wooden stairs together and when police came the editor was still astride, doing his stuff. The next day he resigned as though ashamed of his rage.

E. B. White, who affected a coyness while writing his sometimes whimsical and sometimes atrocious paragraphs for The New Yorker, is about the only writer of his time to give up a fairly good job—just to get away from it all and think things over. He asked for a year's absence but his friends says he will never go back. The world for him is just too perfectly disillusioning. His successor was regarded as an odd choice, a graduate manager of athletics at Cornell and middle-aged. But he substituted for White two weeks and did such an excellent job he was practically drafted. Another star of The New Yorker recently decided to go gypsying and sailed for Europe to remain a year. He is James G. Thompson, who will contribute from his hide-away as the spirit moves.

Perhaps the wealthiest midget of his time is the 24-year-old, 50 pound John Roventi, page boy on a cigarette radio program and known to listeners as Johnny. Johnny was a bell hop in a New York hotel when a radio executive, at the Cornell and middle-aged. But he substituted for White two weeks and did such an excellent job he was practically drafted. Another star of The New Yorker recently decided to go gypsying and sailed for Europe to remain a year. He is James G. Thompson, who will contribute from his hide-away as the spirit moves.

Thingscumbobs: H. G. Wells keeps a dictionary in every room of his living quarters. . . . The close friends of Jimmy Walker shorten it to "Jim". . . . Prince Andrew of Greece wears his monocle surf bathing. . . . Ward Morehouse has visited every city of 10,000 or more in the United States. Phil Simms was the first American newspaperman to sport a white-lined Inverness evening cape. . . . John Golden has never attended the first night of one of his shows.

Memories: Pasting things in the scrap book with the white of an egg is lieu of the more modern library paste, and the pin-cushion in the china slipper.

KEEPING UP TO DATE

A new camera obscure has been developed for "bombless" airplane practice. Housed in a cylindrical structure that forms the plane's target, the camera projects an image of the bombing plane on a chart to check the bomber's aim by determining the plane's position when released the portable unit permits varying the scene of bombless practice.
